WILSON CLAIMS VICTORY IN HOUSE

WARNING RESOLVE UP FOR VOTE

Majority Forces Through Recommendations of Rules Committee by a Vote of 2 to 1

Washington, March 7. — "The White House regards the result as a great victory," said Secretary to the President Tumulty this afternoon when he learned that the administration forces in the House were victorious in the preliminary skirmish on the McLemore resolution.

By F. R. SARTWELL,
International News Service Correspondent.

Washington, March 7.—The House of Representatives today capitulated to President Wilson on the first test vote on proposals to warn Americans off belligerent armed ships. On that vote the forces of the administration were in complete control.

By a majority of 256 to 160, the House carried a motion to limit debate on the special rule for the consideration of the McLemore warning resolution.

Immediately after the vote was taken the roll was called again and by a vote of 271 to 138 the House adopted the rule which limited debate on the resolution itself. The vote on the main question is expected about 5 p. m. today.

When the first vote was announced a hush of silence swept the chamber, followed by a sigh of relief as the members and the crowd realized that the President was sure of a big majority of the House behind him in his foreign policy.

The men who have led the fight for the President through the strenuous weeks of his battle with Congress gave vent to their relief. Little groups gathered together on the floor, shaking hands and congratulating each other. Members on both sides of

LINER WANDERED ALL NIGHT IN FOG

The British steamer City of Vienna, from Calcutta and Colombo, arrived in this port today, after having been lost in the fog all night in Massachusetts Bay. The steamer, with a million-dollar cargo, was off Eastern Point, Cape Ann, when Captain Fields got his bearings and set a course for the lightship. The City of Vienna was taken around the Cape of Good Hope rather than risk the submarines by going through the Suez Canal.

BILL AIMED TO CURB EMPLOYERS LEGAL

Attorney-General Attwill informed the Legislature today that in his opinion the bill before the House to prevent employers from deducting pay from employees who are late to work is constitutional.

"The bill is limited," he said, "to a class which needs protection. It is to prohibit an employer from arbitrarily deducting an amount determined only by himself and to prevent fraud and oppression.

SWIG WILL FILE BRIEF IN CASE

Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker appeared before the full bench of the Supreme Court and asked for permission to file briefs in behalf of Simon Swig, representative from Ward 21, against whom charges of excessive election expenses are pending. Parker was allowed until March 21.

GENERAL PETAIN, defender of Verdun. He distinguished himself at retreat from Charleroi and was rapidly promoted.

It is reported that General Petain has spent the last fifteen days watching the battle from the seat of an armored motor car, and so has been enabled to travel along the front rapidly. To obtain a position on his staff, an officer must be an all-around athlete and a champion cyclist. He has shown unequalled judgment and qualities of leadership.

BRITISH FORCED BACK

Britons Driven from Vermelles at Bayonet Point; Germans Gain 5 Strategic Positions

London, March 7.—Surging forward along their whole line in France, the German troops have occupied five important strategic positions, according to official reports from Paris and Berlin today.

1—The Germans have captured Fresnes, nine miles southeast of Verdun, a pillar of the French defensive line at that point.

2—The Germans have advanced a mile southeast of Forges, taken yesterday, to the borders of the village of Regneville, four miles northwest of Verdun on the Meuse River.

3—The Germans, by an attack with 20,000 men, have taken by storm "Hill No. 265," an important French defensive position near Verdun.

4—The Germans, near Maisons

Latest War Bulletins

London, March 7.—The death list resulting from Sunday night's raid by Zeppelins over England now totals 13, the Admiralty announced today. The German airships dropped ninety bombs, instead of forty, as was stated in the official report issued yesterday from their positions. Numerous trains carrying troops and artillery to Champagne have passed Aix-la-Chapelle.

Copenhagen, March 7.—Berlin advices stated that if Portugal retains the Teuton ships that have been seized, Germany will immediately be induced to begin warlike operations.

The same reports say that German opinion is more optimistic with reference to relations with America, President Wilson's victory in the Senate now being regarded as less important than the early cables intimated.

Geneva, March 7.—Austrian troops are reported to be moving into France to reinforce the Germans.

Amsterdam, March 7.—French aviators bombarded three of the chief forts at Metz on Monday, and also dropped bombs on German ammunition trains carrying supplies to the Kaiser's troops at Verdun. According to reports from the frontier the air raids resulted in extensive damage.

The Hague, March 7.—Germany is reported to be concentrating all available artillery and the best of its infantry forces on the western front, indicating, so Dutch military experts say, that it is determined to press to a final issue the conflict.

Powerful naval guns are said to have been transported to the Yser front, where they will be used in efforts to blast the allies' defenses.

Lowestoft, England, March 7.—The fishing ship Day of Spring was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea today. The crew were saved.

Balfour Says Moeue Escaped By Iceland Route

By FRANK TEMSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, March 7.—No German cruiser is in a position to menace British commerce on any ocean of the world at this moment.

This emphatic announcement of British domination of the seas was made in the House of Commons this afternoon by Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty. It evoked cheers from all parts of the House.

Mr. Balfour explained the escape of the Moewe from the British fleet by stating that it reached its home port by sailing around Iceland. His announcement to this effect was the first official admission in England that the commerce raider had reached a German port.

Preliminary to introducing the naval estimates for the coming year, Mr. Balfour announced that since the war began the personnel of the navy had been doubled and its actual strength had been increased by more than one million tons. In the same period the naval air service has been increased tenfold, he added.

"Under the guardianship of the British fleet," continued Balfour, 4,000,000 combatants, 1,000,000 horses and mules, 2,500,000 tons of stores and 22,000,000 gallons of oil have been carried during the war."

ALASKAN CHILLED BY BOSTON BLAST

Captain C. H. Tuttle, just back in Boston from Alaska, where he has been living twenty years, today gave New England weather a jolt.

"For real downright biting chill that cuts to the marrow Boston weather enjoys first place," said the captain. "New England climate is cold and damp and clammy. It isn't in it with the steady dry climate in Alaska. Poets and politicians are right about Boston's East wind," Captain Tuttle is the guest of relatives in Milton.

BRITISH STEAMER DAMAGED IN CLASH

By the International News Service.

Havre, France, March 7.—The British steamer Saxily was in collision early today, suffering serious damage. A wireless dispatch from the vessel to the Havre port authorities stated that it was leaking badly amidships.

The Saxily, 2,360 tons, sailed from New Orleans for Havre on February 2, and touched at Newport News on February 8.

SOMERVILLE WOMAN GETS BOY'S CUSTODY

Mrs. Grace A. Lewis of Kidder avenue, Somerville, was today given the sole custody of her five-year-old son, Arnold P. Lewis, by Judge Morton in the Suffolk Superior Court. Mrs. Lewis has filed a divorce libel against Clifford B. Lewis, a stock salesman of Somerville.

ONE-MAN CREW BILL IS REJECTED

The proposition for a one-man crew to run a trolley car was voted "leave to withdraw" by the Legislative Committee on Street Railways today. The committee also reported against bills for the erection of railings along the platforms of elevated and subway stations, and for the additional display of signs to tell where elevated trains are bound.

SAY SWIG MAY BE MAYOR

Banquet Giver Reported to be Aiming at Boston City Hall; He's Had Experience in Taunton

Boom! Boom!
Cannon guns?
By no means!

Merely Simon Swig launching his campaign for Mayor of Boston.

That's the new "inside info" regarding that justly celebrated party No. 2 given by Simon at his Summer home, Concord Lodge, in Middletown, R. I., near Newport, last Saturday night, according to rumor which whirled around Beacon Hill today.

It was an awful shock to political strategists who had not figured the Swig entry in the mayoralty sweepstakes, especially at this early date.

But Simon is forehanded and, as the "pols" fully recognize, is a strong party man. Anyone on Beacon Hill today was ready to admit that Swig is strong on parties. He has held two in the past few weeks.

HAS HAD PRACTICE.

After the dust had cleared from the last party—No. 2 at Concord Lodge—and the list of "among those present" had been officially censored by Representative Tom Gibbons (see yesterday's House proceedings and others, it was reported today that the Concord wine feast was designed, in part, to boom Simon for Mayor of Boston.

Furthermore, there was a sign conspicuously placed in Concord Lodge. It purported a pleasing picture of the host, and it read

SIMON SWIG,
THE MAN WHO DOES THINGS FOR MAYOR.

Simon was interviewed today on the mayoralty boom rumor, as follows.

"Are you going to run for Mayor of Boston?"

"Am I?" (with laughter).

"Are you?"

"I'll talk to you about it some other time."

"Was such a sign there?"

"Yes."

"Were you Mayor of Taunton?"

"I was Mayor pro tem."

"What daya mean, 'pro tem'?"

"I was president of the Taunton Board of Aldermen. When the Mayor was absent I was Mayor pro tem."

Then Simon asked a question himself. "Did the reporter desire 'a good story?' Certainly. All right, the reporter could go down to Simon's bank and write a page-full about cashing business and 2,000 new depositors.

A SAD YARN, MATES.

"That's a good story," pursued Simon, "helpful to the common people. Shows how they can save for a rainy day, like today. Don't be poking a good fellow in the ribs all the time."

Another story—beats all how business keeps up after Simon Swig gives a party—leaped forth today about the Concord Lodge gathering.

It is a sad yarn, mates, this latest rumor, for it indicates that, if the party was long on champagne, it was short on bedclothes.

Accounts of the party related that five or six guests left early Sunday morning. It was cruelly said by some that the early getaway was to avoid publicity.

But today it was said that zero atmosphere and insufficient bed coverings caused the break. It seems, according to this report, that Simon forgot, in making his preparations, to

TO SUE HER HUSBAND'S FATHER

Mrs. Carpenter's Attachment Against Father-in-Law Recalls Husband's Flight with Son

Mrs. Marguerite Gale Carpenter, whose break with her husband, Ralph G. Carpenter, the Boston real estate man, was revealed when Mr. Carpenter in a fast automobile whisked their son from the mother's side at Magnolia to his home in Wolfboro, N. H., today filed an attachment for $250,000 against her father-in-law, George A. Carpenter, in the Suffolk courts.

The nature of the suit to follow this attachment could not be learned. The elder Mr. Carpenter said over the telephone

"I had not even heard of the attachment. I have no idea what is to follow."

DIVORCE PENDING.

He was asked whether Mrs. Carpenter had not threatened to sue him claiming he had alienated his son's affections from her. He said this was possible.

The attachment was filed through Walter I. Badger, Mrs. Carpenter's attorney.

The Carpenter divorce suit is pending in the New Hampshire courts, and his client Mr. Carpenter said today it was set for Monday and would probably be tried in Concord.

It was September 7 that Ralph G. Carpenter "kidnaped" his son. The eight-year-old boy was with his mother at a Magnolia Hotel. The mother and child had started across the street in the evening after dinner when an automobile whirled along, slowed down long enough to allow the boy to be snatched into the machine, then sped away.

CHASE FOLLOWED.

A chase followed, and the police of Dover, N. H., halted Mr. Carpenter, releasing him when they learned he had only taken possession of his own son.

Mrs. Carpenter then sought to get legal custody of the boy. This was refused, as was also her request that the boy be allowed to spend Christmas with her.

Mrs. Carpenter before her marriage was Marguerite Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter lived together at the Copley-Plaza until last June, and thereafter their relations were supposed to be happy till Carpenter took possession of his son.

URGE WATERTOWN BILL FOR HIGHWAY

Representative Herbert A. Wilson of Boston today appeared before the legislative Committee on Roads and Bridges in support of a provision to lay out North Beacon street as a State highway to Watertown.

HOLD 3 CHARGED WITH WAGON THEFT

John Chester, John Evans and Norman McKenzie were each held in $1,000 for a hearing Friday in the Municipal Court today, charged with the larceny of a horse and wagon from the Atlantic Express Company.

Hub Schooner Founders; Crew Saved by Liner

A wireless received today by the shipping firm of Rogers & Webb, State street, announced that the fishing schooner Ella L. Davenport foundered at sea, and that Captain Baird and all the crew had been saved and were bound for Port Arthur, Texas, on the steamship Flora, which sailed from Manchester, England.

The fate of the schooner had been a mystery for weeks. She sailed from Newalls Pond, near Norfolk, Va., February 5, and was last reported in the vicinity of Bermuda, February 24. The crew was picked up by the Flora after suffering hardships. The schooner carried 800 tons of coal for a consignee in Providence.

Brookline Has First Vote by Precinct Today

Brookline held its first town meeting today under a new plan the selectmen say better ballots in precincts instead of at a single voting place in the town hall.

The town was in contrast for any local offices, but for the nearly hundred articles of town meeting members, from 15-seven to be elected from each of the nine precincts, there were some hot battles particularly in precincts 4 and 5. In the latter the "good government Association of Precinct 5" had a ticket in the field headed by Stanley Bishop against the ticket headed by former Senator Barrows.

Votes were cast at the town hall, Gardner Hall and Pierce Hall. For the 247 places as town meeting members there were 3 candidates.

The meeting was to discuss appropriations of $1,000,000 for new schools, $100,000 for a new fire station, $50,000 for a new police station, $50,000 for a new bridge over the Charles river, $50,000 for a new bridge over Muddy river, $50,000 for a new bridge over Stony brook, $50,000 for a new bridge over Longwood avenue, $50,000 for a new bridge over Beacon street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Boylston street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Washington street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Commonwealth avenue, $50,000 for a new bridge over Harvard street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Cypress street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Walnut street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Chestnut street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Centre street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Pleasant street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Main street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Elm street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Maple street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Oak street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Ash street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Willow street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Poplar street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Cedar street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Pine street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Spruce street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Hemlock street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Juniper street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Cypress street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Walnut street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Chestnut street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Centre street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Pleasant street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Main street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Elm street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Maple street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Oak street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Ash street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Willow street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Poplar street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Cedar street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Pine street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Spruce street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Hemlock street, $50,000 for a new bridge over Juniper street.

BAD WEATHER CUTS DOWN FISH SUPPLY

Unfavorable weather has caused a marked scarcity of fish. At the Gloucester today a catch of only 300,000 pounds was landed when it was expected that about 1,000,000 pounds would be on hand. The boats of today showed the effects of the storm and all the men told of the hardships they received in last night's blizzard.

The Morning Star was badly battered and much of the rigging had been swept away by the heavy seas. The W. F. Goodspeed reported the loss of six dories and considerable fishing tackle.

FOSTER IS ACCUSED BY LYLE

Witnesses Before the Legislative Committee Say Money Was Given to Gloucester Representative

Vice President Holden of the Boston & Maine Railroad, the Gordon Fox Fisheries Company, Cunningham & Thompson and Sylvanus Smith Company of Gloucester were among those who contributed money to Representative Harry C. Foster of Gloucester, according to testimony of Representative James M. Lyle of Gloucester before the legislative Committee on Rules today.

Testimony was offered to show that Foster received money from many interests in behalf of a highway from Rockport to Gloucester and also for Gloucester harbor development.

Representative Foster has already admitted having collected $400 which he claimed to have given to Attorney John Jackson Walsh in shock form for legal services. Representative Lyle testified that Walsh admitted receiving $400, but that it was not in the form of a check.

SWEAR WITNESSES.

The hearing was on charges preferred by Representative Lyle to the effect that his colleague, who is a former Mayor of Gloucester, collected money for pending legislation, and that he was guilty of "conduct irregular and unbecoming a member of the General Court."

The committee of which Speaker Cushing H. Wox is chairman announced that it was in session to hear witnesses and that everyone connected with the case would be called. This means that many prominent men of Massachusetts will be summoned as witnesses, it is said.

Representative Lyle introduced as his counsel Attorney Warren G. Friend of Gloucester. Attorney Fred J. Taggart of Boston appeared for Representative Foster. Assistant Attorney-General Nelson P. Brown sat

Germans Capture Five Strategic Points in Drive on the Western Front

FORCE FRENCH BACK IN DRIVE ON VERDUN

the Champagne was only resumed a few days ago, when the Germans, after an intense bombardment, delivered a strong infantry attack against the French positions on the Butte de Tahure, between Ville-sur-Tourbe and Souain.

CLOSING BIG PINCERS.

The effort of the German crown prince of Bavaria in trying to make headway simultaneously against the French lines on the west and also that on the southeast, is mounted to about a mile's advance.

The French official bulletin reads:

"In the Argonne the efforts made by the enemy to occupy a mine crater at Haute Chevauchee have been repulsed.

"Our artillery has continued its bombardment of the enemy's lines of communication to the west of the region occupied by an intense bombardment, the Germans have attempted several times during the night to debouch from the trenches of Bagatelle and Fontaine Madame, but were driven back by our fire.

HOLD TWO VILLAGES.

"We hold the villages of Beausejour and Bonnetterie, to the east of Cerbeaux forest and Cumieres on the east of Cote de Chatillon.

"The artillery and infantry very active during the night to the east of the Meuse, in the region of Hill and Hardaumont, as well as to the Woevre, in the sector of Fresnes and the villages of Ornes and Hill 240.

The Berlin official report says:

"West front—Small infantry encounters which resulted in our favor took place yesterday northeast of Vermelles after a hand-grenade fight driven out at the point of the bayonet.

"In Champagne, the position which the French took up in the region of de Champagne on February 17, was recaptured in a surprise attack. Two officers and 150 men were taken prisoners by us.

"Following the explosion of mines we pushed our positions forward northeast of Chalade, in the Argonne. On the Meuse during the artillery fire on the west bank was more lively than of the river it maintained its usual violence.

FRESNES CAPTURED.

"Apart from engagements between reconnoitering parties no hand-to-hand fighting with the enemy took place.

"In the Woevre district the village of Fresnes was captured by storm early Tuesday morning. However, the French are still holding their own in a few houses on the western outskirts. The French lost more than 500 men in prisoners.

"During the night the railway station at Bar le Duc was heavily bombarded by one of our airships.

"East front—There is nothing to report.

"Balkan situation—There is no change in the positions."

SAY GERMAN FLEET IS IN NORTH SEA

By International News Service.

London, March 7.—A heavy snowstorm raged over the North Sea today and no confirmation was available of reports that a big German war fleet had sailed out from Wilhelmshaven, presumably for the purpose of giving battle to the British.

In this same connection it was reported from Amsterdam that a number of big German warships have slipped from the Kiel Canal and have taken refuge in the German naval base of Zeebrugge, Belgium, where they are being with steam up.

A Central News dispatch from Vlieland, Holland, said that a fleet of twenty-five German men of war was observed on Monday in the North Sea, finally disappearing in a northerly direction.

WAR SUMMARY

The centre of German attacks has shifted west from Verdun; and slight advances along the line in Champagne are reported.

Forges, northwest of Verdun, has fallen into German hands. Ten to fifteen miles further westward slight gains have been made. The intervening section of the line runs through the Argonne forest, where fighting is more difficult.

The Germans thus pushed forward on each side of the forest; an example of their favorite tactics by which attacks are made at points not far apart, so that if the attacks succeed, the intervening line must fall back.

The significance of the new activity seems to be an attempt to swing back the line and cut in to the rear of Verdun. Such a move, if successful, would hit the French a harder blow than the capture of Verdun by a frontal attack; for it would doubtless mean the loss of many prisoners to the Germans.

Verdun is served by two railroad lines. An advance by the Germans in the Champagne would cut one, an advance from St. Mihiel would cut the other. The Champagne advance seems to be the German hope now.

German attacks on Verdun have already given them 21,000 French prisoners. The nature of the fighting has been such that the proportion of prisoners to other losses is probably small—one to three or one to four. It seems probable the French losses are in the neighborhood of 90,000; the German losses twenty to twenty-five thousand higher.

Reports persist that the German fleet is preparing to sally forth, and that yesterday's Zeppelin raid was a scouting expedition. The return of the Moewe to a German port must have given the Germans confidence in their ability to pierce the British blockade and reach the open sea. Successful in that feat they would paralyze the world's commerce for weeks—perhaps long enough to waken the hovering spectre of famine in England; for it is no easy matter to hunt down swift and single ships on the open sea, and England's naval resources would be heavily taxed.

CABINET DEBATES CRISIS IN ITALY

By International News Service.

Rome, March 7.—Before the Chamber of Deputies met today in anticipation of a vote on resolutions declaring lack of confidence in the government, several party caucuses were held. Two of these adjourned without taking definite action, and those attending were left free to vote as they saw fit on the resolutions introduced by the socialists. Premier Salandra called a meeting of the Cabinet to discuss the situation. He refrained from his intention of resigning if the resolutions were adopted.

PRESIDENT HAILS TEST VOTE AS VICTORY

29 DEMOCRATS WITH MINORITY.

Twenty Democrats voted against the President on the first test vote. The majority of the Republican side followed Minority Leader Mann and opposed the previous question. The Democrats who voted against the President were:

Bailey, Pennsylvania; Black, Texas; Bruckner, New York; Buchanan, Illinois; Buchanan, Texas; Burke, Wisconsin; Callaway, Texas; Dale, New York; Davis, Texas; Flynn, New York; Hamill, New Jersey; Johnson, Kentucky; Keating, Colorado; Konop, Wisconsin; Lobeck, Nebraska; Mclemore, Texas; Slayden, Texas; Stephens, Nebraska; Tavenner, Illinois; Van Dyke, Minnesota.

The House listened in intense silence to the vigorous debate. Only a prolonged applause which greeted the declarations of the Administration leaders that the President was for war and had the House on this vote must show a united country behind him disturbed the rapt attention.

Both floor and galleries, crowded to overflowing, listened close to the arguments of the leaders as they analyzed the situation.

Several times the applause that greeted praise for the President was so prolonged that Speaker Clark had trouble in bringing the House back to order and his gavel fell heavily on his desk.

Acting Chairman Pou of the Rules Committee immediately opened the argument, declaring that the ruling of the resolution would "conclusively show" that the House was standing squarely behind President in his handling of the diplomatic controversy with Germany.

It has been said that the President "wants war," he shouted. "All the time of his power devised a means to famous lie. The President has struggled for peace. No President since Washington's time has borne himself as he has. But the President is not ready to surrender the dignity and honor of a nation under international law."

Representative Campbell of Kansas opened the debate for the opponents of the rule, explaining that he would, if the previous question was voted down, immediately offer a substitute. The Campbell substitute reads:

The resolution and preamble shall both be open to amendment with the following amendment considered as pending, to wit:

Strike out both the preamble and resolution and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the House of Representatives citizens of the United States, under existing conditions and irrespective of their legal rights, ought to refrain from taking passage in armed vessels of belligerent nations except in case of imperative necessity," and the consideration of the resolutions and amendments thereto shall proceed under the five-minute rule to a final vote in Congress.

DUTY TO AVOID WAR.

"Does anyone believe that warning American not to travel on ships that have been called by the Secretary of State 'offensively armed' is yielding any of the rights of America?" Mr. Campbell asked.

He discussed the "horror" of the Europeans, and said: "We are not relieving with this horror over the right of foolhardy Americans to travel on armed ships of belligerents."

"The one thing for this House to do today," he declared, "is to avoid war, so far as the action of this House can avoid war."

Representative Harrison, who has led the fight for the President during the strenuous weeks of the Congressional controversy, declared the House must vote on the issue of sustaining the President.

"If you vote down this rule," he said, "you vote to encourage the people in foreign capitals, but you vote to stab your President in the back."

Representative Chiperfield, of Illinois, declared the people of Illinois would stand behind the President, but said nothing was a cause for war, unless it threatened the life and welfare of the nation.

"There is nothing quite so despicable," he said, "as a man who insists upon the full measure of his rights regardless of the consequences to others."

Representative Gardner of Massachusetts was the first Republican to speak for the President. He confined himself to a discussion of the parliamentary situation.

NO THOUGHT OF WAR.

Representative Bennet of New York told the House that he conferred with the President yesterday, and that he could assure Congress that the President had no thought of war.

Representative Cantrill of Kentucky made a brief speech supporting the President.

Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin urged that the previous question be voted down and the special rule be adopted to provide for a straight out and out warning issue.

Representative Lenroot declared that Representative Gardner and others who advocated adoption of the rule, which would prevent amendment to the McLemore resolution and would table it thereafter, subjected themselves to the charge of cowardice.

Representative Fitzgerald of New York declared that he would vote for the previous question and for the rule.

"But I shall vote," he said, "against the motion to lay the McLemore resolution on the table. If that motion is voted down we can amend the McLemore resolution to make it clear and proper. Then I would vote as many members will, to warn foolhardy Americans citizens that they should not jeopardize the peace of this country."

The American flag was vigorously waved by Representative Farr of Pennsylvania, a Republican. "I shall vote to table the McLemore issue, because of that flag," he shouted, pointing to the big banner behind the Speaker's chair. "A vote for the McLemore resolution would be a vote to put a yellow streak in the flag."

Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, Republican, supported the administration plan, procedure.

"I do not want to be pro-German, pro-Austrian, or pro-English today," said Representative Graham. "I want to be a plain American."

The House applauded vigorously as Republican Leader Mann strode down the aisle to make the final Republican speech on the rule. He urged that the previous question be voted down, and said that if it was so voted down, he would vote for the Campbell substitute rule providing for a vote on a simple warning issue.

"We're not express any opinion on the subject of Americans traveling on belligerent ships by laying the McLemore resolution on the table until such action could be construed as an invitation to American citizens so to travel," he said. "I do not favor such an invitation, for it may lead to war. The President has asked our opinion. Let us tell him freely, fully, frankly that we do not desire complications which will lead to war."

Representative Garrett of Tennessee made a stirring plea for support for the President, closing debate on the special rule, and when he moved to put all further debate and amendment there was a roar of applause.

A hush of silence followed and the vote settled down to the solemn, long-drawn-out business of calling the roll on the first test vote of the day.

THE McLEMORE RESOLVE.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Sixty-fourth Congress of the United States do and it hereby solemnly does, request the President to warn all American citizens within the borders of the United States or else-where, to refrain from traveling on any and all ships of any and all of the powers now at war in the future at war, which ship or ships shall mount guns, whether such ship be friendly avowed as part of the naval forces of the power whose flag it flies or shall be called a merchant ship or otherwise, or whether such gun or guns or other armament be called "offensive" or "defensive," and in case American citizens do travel upon such armed belligerent ships, they do so at their own risk.

Resolved, That when the President of the United States or Secretary of State shall come into possession of the actual memorandum of the German government with facsimiles of alleged secret instructions, direct that so-called "defensive armament for merchant ships" shall be manned and directed by naval officers and men of the Navy of Great Britain and that such so-called "defensive armament for merchant ships" and such naval officers and men shall be, as far as possible, concealed and disguised when in neutral waters and ports with the evident intention to deceive the President of the United States or the Secretary of State, and that at the earliest possible moment transmit such actual memorandum of the German government with such facsimiles of alleged secret instructions of the British government and with all appendices whatever of the Senate, that it and they may be laid before the Senate for its full information and for its assistance in performing its duty and in safeguarding the welfare of the country and its citizens and for its assistance in performing its constitutional duty of advising the President of the United States with regard to foreign relations.

Resolved, That the House expresses the determination of the people and government of the United States both to uphold all American rights and to exercise care, consideration and wisdom in avoiding action which tend to bring American citizens and American interests into the zone of conflict where the passions of war are raging.

Sift "German Congress Plot"

By International News Service.

Washington, March 7.—A sweeping congressional investigation of the charges published by the New York World today that the National German-American Alliance has conspired to force passage of warning resolutions through Congress will be ordered if the administration forces in Congress are able to control the situation.

According to the charges printed by the World in a copyrighted article today, the alliance, the chief offices of which are at No. 30 Malden Lane, New York, has a congressional program calling for legislation that would force refusal by the United States of passports to Americans who travel on ships of the belligerents; an embargo on exportation of contraband of war, and prohibiting Federal reserve banks from subscribing for war loans.

It is alleged the alliance planned to control the next Republican national convention and eventually defeat Woodrow Wilson for re-election.

House Majority Leader Kitchin today declared he had been influenced by any one in the position he has taken that Americans should not be permitted to take passage on armed belligerent vessels.

Sutherland Tired Of Spineless Policy

By the International News Service.

Washington, March 7.—Senator Sutherland, Republican, of Utah, declared on the Senate floor today that the United States must back up the President's position at whatever cost or consequence, "unless it is willing to forfeit the respect of mankind by becoming a craven thing."

"I, for one," he said, "am becoming sick and tired of the spineless policy of retreat and scuttle, the policy that, among other things, has ordered our people to abandon their rights in Mexico and that has made us the eye on plain duty in the Philippines.

"Instead of forever telling our people to run, I should like for one to hear somebody bid them stand, with the assurance that their government will stand with them.

"Instead of warning our own people to exercise their rights at their peril, I would like to see issued a warning to other people to interfere with these rights at their peril.

"The duty now is that by this policy of always backing down instead of backing up we shall encourage an increased encroachment upon our rights until we shall finally be driven into a crisis from which nothing but war can extricate us."

Sherwood Will Not Run Again

By International News Service.

Washington, March 7.—Representative I. R. Sherwood of Ohio, one of the oldest members of the House, today announced that following the vote on the issue of warning Americans off belligerent ships he would decline to be a candidate for renomination. He followed the example of Representative Page of North Carolina, who, last night, notified his constituents he would not be a candidate again.

Representative Sherwood said he would support the administration in his vote today. He declared, however, that he could not subscribe to the administration's preparedness policy and that he felt that the Democrats should seek to send another member from his district.

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says glass of hot water before breakfast washes poisons from system.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels all previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste and foul, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.—Advertisement.

Enjoy Life! Take Cascarets and Wake Up Feeling Fit and Fine—Best Laxative for Men, Women, Children—Harmless—Never Gripe.

Cascarets are a treat! They liven your liver, clean your thirty feet of bowels and sweeten your stomach. You eat one or two Cascarets like candy before going to bed and in the morning your head is clear, tongue is clean, stomach sweet, breath right, cold gone and you feel grand.

Get a 10 or 25-cent box at any drug store and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Stop sick headaches, bilious spells, indigestion, furred tongue, offensive breath and constipation. Mothers should give cross, peevish, feverish, bilious children a whole Cascaret any time. They are harmless and never gripe or sicken.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is faded, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

NUNS TELL OF MEXICO HORRORS

By ADA PATTERSON.

New York, March 7.—The steamship Antonio Lopez, low and broad and black, lay at anchor at Pier 8 in 23st Place. She looked, through the thick veil of snow, like some broad-backed monster of the deep that had been drawn to the surface by the common instinct of curiosity.

At the cabin doors of the boat that had sailed from Vera Cruz and was bound for Cadiz thirty black-robed, white-coifed women were watching with soft, startled dark eyes the progress of the late Winter storm.

They were nuns on the way to Spain from the inferno of the butchery dignified by the name civil war in Mexico.

24 BOUND TO UNKNOWN HAVEN.

They represented three orders. Only six of them knew what shelter, if any, awaited them in Spain. Two will become teachers in the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Madrid. Two will find the same kind refuge in Barcelona. Another pair will go to a convent near Gibraltar.

The remaining twenty-four, shivering in the cold air that blew in at the narrow cabin doors, grasped their crucifixes with pale fingers, bowed their veiled heads and said:

"We do not know where we will go. We are in the hands of the Lord."

Yet, though uncertainty, perhaps pauperism, awaited them, these holy women of Mexico said as with one voice: "The new life cannot be worse than the old. We do not fear hunger nor cold, but there are greater dangers, more awful terrors."

The unnamed perils of brigandage had killed in their gentle breasts the love of country. "We may never go back. We do not know. We do not want to go. There have been six years of this. It is more terrible than death," they said as with one voice.

DRIVEN OUT BY GOVERNMENT.

Sister Teresa, of the Order of the Visitation of Saul, looked up from a letter she had written and fitted it into one of the square envelopes of the steamship line. It would go to a friend she had left behind and whom she might never see again in Morelia.

"The government has sent us away," she said, looking with a sad half smile at the group of somber-gowned figures, the pale, serene faces of the sisters. "The Mexican government thinks we are a dangerous class, that we are undesirable citizens.

"We have come from Morelia, a town fourteen hours' ride south of Mexico City. We had a school there. It was called the Convent of the Lady of Guadalupe. One day the government sent a representative.

"He looked stern and fierce. 'You must go,' he said. 'Such a government wishes it. The government wants no church schools. It will change this into one for the State.'

"He called in other men who had written orders from the government. They smashed the pictures from the wall and took the holy images from their niches. They did not destroy them within our sight. We heard they sold them. We could hold his Saviour, but we do not know.

THROWN ON PUBLIC CHARITY.

"Before nightfall we were out of the school and had hidden in the homes of devout families. We became objects of public charity. The school was changed into one for the State. Its name is the Academy of National Science. It is not permitted that any religion should be taught there."

A woman whose face was like a bit of gray parchment, interlaced with many characters, crossed the cabin unsteadily and turned inquiring eyes upon us. Her back was crooked as a gnarled tree branch. But her smile was sweet. Her eyes bespoke an alert intelligence.

"That is Sister Cochona," Sister Teresa said in her gentle, lulling English. "She is our Sister Superior. She is, as you see, very old. She said to us in Spanish that we should be humble. She thinks it is vain-glorious to have one nun in the newspapers.

"We have heard many stories of nuns being mistreated and murdered by the soldiers," he said. "Is that true?"

"Ah, yes," exclaimed Sister Teresa of the Order of Infantisas (Little Infant), "we have heard many horrible stories of nuns being tortured and killed. We believe them. There have been many cases, too many. We have heard of them and we have shuddered and turned away and tried to forget.

"In Mexico City the sisters are safe. We may speak. But in the outside cities they are not safe. It is from these towns that the terrible stories have come."

Mrs. Lyman Would Go to Jail for Husband; Tells of Her Romance

Mrs. John Grant Lyman, the young French wife of the indicted stock promoter, who tells of their romance and of her great love for her "perfect" husband.

New York, March 7.—"Now, ask me. Who am I? Have I ever been arrested? Do I love my husband? What am I to do when they put my husband in prison? Am I young? What have I done in my life? Was I my husband's business partner? So? Ask me."

As her husband is big—a mountain of a man—so is Mrs. John Grant Lyman small. She received an AMERICAN reporter and interviewed both herself and the reporter.

Lyman entered today a plea of not guilty before Federal Judge Dayton, to the second indictment charging him with conducting a scheme to defraud under an assumed name. Lyman entered a similar plea last week to the first indictment, charging misuse of the mails.

That a new indictment was returned against her husband, Dr. John Grant Lyman, the spectacular stock promoter, seemed not to impress Mrs. Lyman at all.

"Before my first marriage," she said, "I was Leonore Hartmann. I am French—born in Paris of French and Swiss parents. And I am reared in England. And there I was first married. I am divorced from him. He is in the trenches and unharmed.

"Two years ago, in England, I met Dr. Lyman," she said. "Soon I married him. I know nothing about his business affairs. I know what his business was—yes. But he told me nothing. I asked him nothing. You do not believe me. Neither do they?

With a sweep of her hand she indicated two men near the hotel doors. "Detective," she explained. "Everywhere I go they go. I stop—they stop. They follow me thinking I shall go where money is hidden. It is plain they think me a fool. They think I would lead them if I knew where money was hidden. So quick I could give them the slip.

"A man is so curious. For a woman he will risk everything. For a woman he will dare anything. With a woman he can do—well, almost everything. And because of a woman he may lose everything. There is my husband. I love him, love him so.

"He was arrested because he wanted me. He left the boat and landed in Florida because he wanted to communicate with me. Now for him I would go to jail, anywhere.

"What shall I do? I shall make money for myself, for my mother, whom I brought from England three weeks ago and for my baby, Grant, who is only four months old. How shall I make money? Who knows? There is much I can do.

MRS. HALE FREE; JUDGE PROVES CHIVALROUS

Friends of Mrs. May Wilson Hale, Back Bay milliner and coffee agent, and wife of Robert Sever Hale, a millionaire Boston, Clubman, were keenly interested in a news dispatch today telling how a chivalrous Southern Judge had refused to sentence her to jail after she had pleaded guilty in New York to an indictment on a customs charge.

"It is horrible to send a woman to jail," said the judge, as he imposed a fine of $50 on Mrs. Hale, which her counsel paid.

The case was heard in the Federal District Court in New York, and the judge, who by his decision proved that chivalry still lives, was Judge A. C. Dayton of West Virginia.

The offence for which Mrs. Hale was indicted occurred in 1912, a year before her marriage. The charge was that she undervalued to the extent of $200 a number of hats, dolls and feathers which she brought from Europe as personal baggage.

After Mrs. Hale made her plea of guilty, Assistant United States District Attorney Harper urged the Court to impose a jail sentence. This met with strenuous objection from former United States District Attorney Henry M. Wise, who, like the judge, is of Southern ancestry.

"My client's offence is so petty as to make the government's demand that she be given a jail sentence ridiculous," said Wise. "There have been many cases where the government has lost thousands of dollars, and the defendants paid only fines, so that the idea of sending this woman to jail is humorous."

Here Judge Dayton broke in with: "Mr. Wise, you probably share the Southern opinion that it is horrible to send a woman to jail. I don't mind saying I am of that opinion myself. The association of womanhood with jail is abhorrent to me."

Mrs. Hale is a member of the millinery firm of Wilson & McEnany on Boylston street, and her marriage to the nephew of the famous Dr. Edward Everett Hale was the climax of one of the prettiest romances in Boston society.

NEW LOAN PLAN FOR BOSTON

Boston is to have a banking system for small borrowers.

It is called the Morris Plan of Industrial Loans and Investments.

It is already in operation in several cities of the country. Thirty of Boston's leading and representative business men, including bankers, heads of large industrial corporations, attorneys, baseball magnates and others, at a meeting at the Algonquin Club, formed a committee of organization to put a Morris Plan bank in operation in this city.

These men believe that the Morris Plan is practicable, safe and reasonably profitable, and that it will be of great benefit to the community.

The industrial workers—meaning the clerk, fireman, policeman, artisan, tailor, reporter, bookkeeper, salesman and many another salaried employe—who gets into a "financial hole," may borrow money on his character and social credit at six per cent. interest, instead of resorting for credit to the so-called "loan shark" and his exorbitant interest charge.

BOSTON MEN AID.

The Morris plan was presented to the thirty Boston business men at a dinner by Clark Williams, former Comptroller of the Currency, now president of the Industrial Finance Corporation of New York, and by Herbert L. Satterlee, John Markle and Arthur J. Morris, the founder and now general counsel of the same corporation.

The Boston business leaders, who were present by invitation of Eugene V. R. Thayer, president of the Merchants National Bank, included:

Eugene V. R. Thayer, president Merchants National Bank; General William A. Bancroft, president Boston Elevated; George H. Ruffi, general manager Swift & Co.; Henry Parkman, treasurer President Institution for Savings; George F. Willett, of Willett, Sears & Co.; Francis L. Higginson, Jr., of Lee, Higginson & Co.; Leslie K. Ligerwood, president United Drug Company; Charles L. Edson, president Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston; William F. Fitzgerald, of Fitzgerald, Hubard & Co.; John T. Morse and Moors & Cabot; Robert S. Bradley, chairman of the Board, American Agricultural Chemical Company; Edwin S. Webster, of Stone & Webster; Joseph W. Farwell, of Farwell, Harold, Whitnole & Lamson; Frank W. Stearns, of E. H. Stearns Company; Arthur C. Wise of Millett, Roe & Hagen; James T. Williams, Jr., editor Boston Transcript; Louis A. Coldge, treasurer United Shoe Machinery Company; Percy D. Haughton, manager Boston National League Baseball Company; Frank Brooks of Kidder, Peabody & Co.; Francis R. Hart, vice-chairman of the board, Old Colony Trust Company; Bernard W. Trafford, vice-president First National Bank; Charles B. Wiggin, vice-president National Shawmut Bank; James H. Hustis, president Boston & Maine Railroad; Herbert M. Hallett, president Fourth Atlantic National Bank; Huntington Sawyer, of Sawyer, Austin & Searle, of Searle & Waterhouse, Attorney William H. Coolidge; Prescott B. Cotton of Morris, Gardell & Cotton; W. Hoyrick Brown and Malin Sawyer of Brown Brothers & Co.; Frederick R. Washburn, president Worcester Morris Plan Company.

ADOPT RESOLUTION.

They adopted the following resolution:

We, the undersigned, recognizing the need in this community of an institution where the industrial workers can secure loans upon fair conditions and at reasonable rates of interest, and having considered the methods of operation and the statements of actual experience had in other cities by the operation of the Morris Plan of Industrial Loans and Investments, recommend the establishment of such an institution in Boston. We are of the opinion that the plan proposed is practicable and safe for operation, that it is reasonably profitable, and that such an organization would be of great benefit to this community.

Eugene V. R. Thayer was elected chairman of the committee on organization, to complete the formation of a company to operate the Morris Plan in Boston.

The Morris plan will enable the small borrower to escape the exorbitant interest rates charged by many money lenders in the city of Boston. Here is a concrete example of the way it works:

HOW PLAN WORKS.

A salaried employe faces an immediate need for $100 cash—due, perhaps, to a birth, illness, or death in his family. He applies for a loan at one of the Morris Plan offices and is naturally told by the officers of each that they are not engaged in the small loan business.

If he makes his needs known to a Morris Plan institution, he is told by the manager that he is welcome, and that they are glad to feel beholden to the company, because it is its business to supply investments, his obligation when due. He and his indorsers sign a note for $100. For each month of the amount, less the legal rate of interest for one year.

He is required to make weekly payments in the purchase of a certificate, which may, at his option, operate to liquidate his liability to the company. At the end of fifty weeks these payments aggregate the amount of the loan. His note falls due two weeks later and his accumulated funds may be applied to its payment. Clear of debt, he leaves the institution a self-respecting citizen. It has become his bank.

DR. RICHARDSON TO GIVE LECTURE

Dr. Frank C. Richardson of Boston University Medical School, specialist on diseases of the nervous system, will deliver a free public lecture on the subject, "As a Man Thinks, at East Boston High School Thinks," at East Boston High School. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the East Boston Medical Society.

Finds $100 Bill, from Dixie, and Lands in Cell

Robert Don found a hundred-dollar bill. It was a Confederate bill. It cost him $25 of his own good money and it landed him in a police cell. Outside of that it was a lucky find.

Don is a Cambridge carpenter. He went into the George H. Homer Jewelry Company's store at No. 118 Tremont street today and offered a $100 note for a watch and chain. It was a Confederate note. The clerk telephoned the police and Don was taken to Court square station on a charge of attempted larceny of the watch and chain.

Don told Captain Sullivan he saw a man drop the bill on Canal street. He picked it up and tried to overtake the supposed loser, but was unable to. He was putting the bill in his own pocket when a second man stepped up and said: "Here, I saw you find that. Split with me or I'll tell on you."

Don said he had $20 of his own money. He gave the second man half of this. A third man came up a moment later and secured $10 more on a similar story of seeing Don find the century note.

Captain Sullivan will hold Don a while to see if the police can round up the three men in the old money trade.

Farrar's 'Uncle' as 'September Morn' Arrested

Taunton, March 7.—Ernest Lastar, who declares that he is an uncle of Geraldine Farrar, was taken into custody by the police last night, and was committed to the Taunton Insane Hospital, for observation.

Farrar did a September Morn stunt, and nearly caused a riot when he dashed into a crowded South End saloon and started to run up and down the top of the bar. He was clad only in the remnants of a pajama suit. He ran from his boarding house, about half a mile away, through the snow and dashing into the saloon leaped upon the bar.

When the police arrived he tried to make a get-away by a rear door, but was captured and sent to the prison ward. Dr. Dempsey was advised that he might be despondent because of the fact that he failed to get "Hal" to circulate at a wedding, but the police say he had been indulging too freely.

4,889,939 Baths Record at Dover Street Building

Four million, eight hundred and eighty-nine thousand, nine hundred and thirty-nine baths have been taken at the Dover street bath house in the South End since the building was erected in 1893.

These figures were obtained, at the request of Mayor Curley, from the Park Department, in answer to a question by members of the Boston City Council interested in obtaining for the West End of Boston a similar bath house.

FINE VARIETY IN NEW PULLMAN CARS

The variety of body types offered by the Motor Manufacturers' Company is conspicuously apparent in the new Pullmans. The two styles of roadsters, one with an extra wide two-passenger seat, and the other with three separate single seats arranged on the popular clover leaf plan, to accommodate three passengers comfortably, is an evidence of their desire to cater to the individual desires of patrons. The demand for closed cars caused the demands of the public for a field of selection suited to individual taste or need. Open and closed cars that are bound to meet with favor.

H. W. Hayden, vice-president and general manager, and A. H. Cosgrove, general sales manager of the Motor Company, are making their headquarters at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

FUEL ECONOMY IN CHALMERS MODELS

"A splendid piece of engineering is attested to the new Chalmers models in that increased speed has been produced not at the expense of increased gasoline consumption—as would naturally be supposed—but, rather, with decreased consumption," says Frank Allen.

"Fuel economy is one of the goals of the Chalmers. High power with a low gasoline bill is the goal of the engineer.

"This has been especially driven home to the motor world by the possibility of the gasoline famine that is in the minds of everyone. The wholesale exportation of gasoline from this country threatens to send the price of this valuable fuel to heights never before attained."

Edward J. Eaton, oldest fireman in Milton, was given a banquet in town hall last night. He has been connected with Ladder 1 in East Milton forty-five years. Chief Henry Holmes presented him a gold badge and Captain H. B. Williams of Ladder 1 gave "Ned" a brier pipe from the men of the company.

GASOLINE BILL IN HOUSE

By International News Service.

Washington, March 7.—A bill calling for an export duty of fifty cents a gallon on all gasoline shipped out of the United States was introduced in the House by Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago.

The resolution was put in at the suggestion of the New York Americans.

"It is a fact," said the author, "that while we are neutral and if the contesting allies continue to take as much gasoline from the United States as they used in 1915, the resulting revenue will be almost enough to pay the annual cost of maintaining the navy.

"Whereas, The annual consumption of the available supply of oil products in the United States for the current year, as well as other governmental endeavors in this direction; and

"Whereas, An inquiry by the Committee on Ways and Means establish a monopoly to corporate control of the gasoline and oil products, in which direction the trust is highly necessary; and

"Whereas, A duty of fifty cents per gallon only on fuel for cars now being constructed by the United States Steel Corporation.

"BE IT ENACTED in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled:

"That upon each and every gallon of gasoline exported from the United States shall be levied and collected a duty of fifty cents.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to make all necessary regulations to make effective the provisions of this act, which shall be in force for the first time and after its enactment.

LOOKS ON TASK AS DIFFICULT.

"Any project which the Hearst papers support has an excellent chance of winning out. We in the Middle West know that as well as most things fail to live on either of the seaboards. But in the task of conserving the supply of crude oil in the United States, I feel that all of us are up against a difficulty which looks at first glance unsurmountable.

"The trouble is that gasoline consumers (and it must be understood that gasoline and crude oil are properly interchangeable terms as gasoline is a product of crude oil) are unfortunately in a position of relative inactivity. On the other hand the chief gasoline producers, the standard oil company and its allies, are in a position to manipulate the supply at their pleasure.

"If our bill is to become a law it will become a law only by the unremitting efforts of every individual gasoline consumer in the United States. And there is only one way for these efforts to be made.

"Let every automobile owner, every farmer who has a gasoline engine on his farm, everyone who uses gasoline in any form—inform all of their friends and write their representatives in Congress, urging the passage of the Britten bill. If that is done the bill will pass. If it is not done, the chances are that the power of the great corporation which controls the supply and price of gasoline.

BENEFIT TO AMERICANS.

"How far-reaching this bill which I have introduced. In my district in Chicago alone there are 1,700 individual licenses for users of automobiles. Some of them possess more and own as many as 200 automobiles.

"Let them and let all the other gasoline users in the country get to know what they think about it. Let the motor clubs, the great corporations that use motor transport, the farmers—let them all address themselves to their individual Congressmen on this subject—and the Britten bill will become law.

"I anticipate from proudly sourced the charge that the imposition of a 50 per cent. duty on gasoline is an inimical act. I reply by saying that I am not thinking of any of the belligerents interests, but entirely of the welfare of the American consumer."

POOR STUDENTS TO GET CHANCE AT CAMP

In order that the poorer men in the local colleges may attend the government camp of instruction at Plattsburg, the Aid Society for American Preparedness has been organized and is headed by Mrs. Joseph Lovett of Boston. The Harvard undergraduates who are members are: Wells Blanchard, F. H. Lovell, H. Lovett and L. Morgan. It is the intention of this society to give such financial aid as necessary to each man unable to pay the money himself. The Harvard regimental headquarters is taking care of the Harvard cases.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR HARVARD UNION

Whether Harvard men will be compelled to become members of Harvard Union while in college had its first discussion this afternoon in the living room of the union. The student council has referred the question of compulsory membership in the union to the council of 50 and every undergraduate to make join, the fee going down on the term bill. There will be further discussion on the question this week in the union, and each club will take action on the proposition later in the month.

PHILOMATHEIA HOST TO FATHER LYONS

Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S. J., president of Boston College, was tendered a luncheon and reception at the Hotel Vendome this afternoon by the members of the Philomatheia Club, the auxiliary to the alumni association of Boston College. Father Lyons was presented substantial check for the building fund of Boston College.

Text of Britten Resolve to Tax Gasoline Exports

By International News Service.

Washington, March 7.

FOLLOWING is the text of Representative Fred A. Britten's resolution, introduced in the House today, providing for an export tax on gasoline:

Whereas, There were exported from the United States during the calendar year 1915 2,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline, naphtha and lighter products of distillation, valued at $137,000,000 (an average of 12 cents a gallon), and

Whereas, This tremendous production and exportation cannot long continue without materially affecting the national resources of a commodity the necessity of which is so great to the manufacturer, the farmer and to every branch of industry, and

Whereas, The conservation of the available supply of oil products is of the utmost importance to the people, as are other governmental endeavors in this direction, and

Whereas, An inquiry by the Committee on Ways and Means establish a monopoly to corporate control of the gasoline and oil products, in which direction the trust is highly necessary; and

Whereas, A duty of fifty cents per gallon only on fuel for cars now being constructed by the United States Steel Corporation.

BE IT ENACTED in the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled:

That upon each and every gallon of gasoline exported from the United States shall be levied and collected a duty of fifty cents.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to make all necessary regulations to make effective the provisions of this act, which shall be in force for the first time and after its enactment.

SENIOR'S SATIRE STIRS FACULTY AT HARVARD

Elmer E. Hagler, Jr., the Harvard senior who, in his satirical book "Harvard Inside-out" made the Harvard faculty the butt of his caustic pen, is a son of Elmer E. Hagler, a well known Boston lawyer, and a graduate of the college class of 1887.

Though Hagler is rather secretive about that visit it is believed that he called at the lecture for the purpose of getting on the short-comings of the faculty.

It is very doubtful if the dean congratulated the firm of Hagler & Bacon over their publication, nor is it likely that the office of Mark Lamber, Inc., and all about her love affair with "Will" Orpet, and will be the chief witness for the State.

Verne Jackson was with Marian and "Jo" at the station on the morning that Marian had met Orpet in Helm's words instead of going on to school, and saw a man waiting to take the kids dodging behind trees and endeavoring to conceal their identity. Orpet did not admit his meeting with Marian Lambert, and that he was at her side when the body of the college girl, Ruth Jackson to establish this point.

Then the defense will call one to enter the room. He remained for half an hour. He told the story of the disappearance of Ida Annis in the search for her and how he found her body. He told what he knew of her love affair with young Orpet.

"Jo" Davis told of the love affair of Marian and Orpet, of Marian being in trouble and of the arrangement for a meeting between them, when Orpet promised to wed and Marian.

Marian parted with Miss Davis to meet Orpet, and so far as is known Miss Davis was the last person except Orpet to see the girl alive.

E. C. Orpet told about the cyanide of potassium kept in the greenhouse. The Cyrus H. McCormick estate, where he is superintendents, and Albert Orpet, a gardener, told about burying the poisons as was done by orders of Orpet after "Will" Orpet had been arrested.

SALEM GIRL TRIES SUICIDE THIRD TIME

As a result of her third attempt at suicide within a year, by drinking poison, Eva Ryarck, 17, of Boston street, Salem, is at the Salem Hospital, where the doctors say she will not recover. The girl was found in a Salem department store. She pleaded with the doctors to let her die.

WILSON INDORSES BABY WEEK PLAN

Washington, March 7.—President Wilson has indorsed the plans of the Children's Bureau for nation-wide observance of Baby Week. He expressed his sentiments in a letter sent to Secretary of Labor Wilson.

ORPET TO FIGHT FOR DELAY

Chicago, March 7.—The indictment against William H. Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student, for the murder of Marian Frances Lambert, the Lake Forest High School girl, whose body was found in Highland woods on the morning of February 19, will be formally returned today or Wednesday, state's Attorney Daly will ask that the trial of Orpet be set for next Monday.

Lawyers for Orpet will not consent to trial at such an early date. They claim it will take them several weeks to prepare their case, and they also desire postponement because they believe the great interest aroused by the crime has made a fair and judicial hearing of Orpet's defence impossible at this time.

The Grand Jury reported the indictment twenty minutes after the last witness had left the room. The text of the report follows:

The Grand Jury here now returns into open court an indictment charging William Orpet with the crime of murder.

Two members of the Grand Jury were from Lake Forest and three from Waukegan. The remainder were from suburbs.

TWO WITNESSES MISSING.

Two witnesses by whom Daly says great store failed to respond to subpoenas. They were Otto Paterson, the student who mailed the "Will" letter in Madison for Orpet on the day Marian Lambert died, and Charles Hassinger, the drug clerk in Madison who sold Orpet a two-ounce phial on February 8. This phial is believed to have been the container of the poison which killed the Lambert girl.

Two witnesses were Frank Lambert, father of the slain girl, and E. O. Orpet, father of the youth. These two men, once fast friends, shook hands in sympathy at the inquest, but before the Grand Jury Orpet sat alone.

Mr. Orpet's face was pale and drawn, and his attitude and air was that of a man broken by grief. He stoutly maintains, however, that his boy is innocent of the crime.

Mrs. Lambert, mother of Marian, was unable to appear before the Grand Jury on account of illness.

Josephine Davis and Verne Jackson, classmates and schoolmates of Marian Lambert, were the principal witnesses. Miss Davis knew every detail of Marian Lambert's life, and all about her love affair with "Will" Orpet, and will be the chief witness for the State.

Verne Jackson was with Marian and "Jo" at the station on the morning that Marian had met Orpet in Helm's words instead of going on to school, and saw a man waiting to take the kids dodging behind trees and endeavoring to conceal their identity. Orpet did not admit his meeting with Marian Lambert, and that he was at her side when the body of the college girl, Ruth Jackson to establish this point.

Then the defense will call one to enter the room. He remained for half an hour. He told the story of the disappearance of Ida Annis in the search for her and how he found her body. He told what he knew of her love affair with young Orpet.

"Jo" Davis told of the love affair of Marian and Orpet, of Marian being in trouble and of the arrangement for a meeting between them, when Orpet promised to wed and Marian.

Marian parted with Miss Davis to meet Orpet, and so far as is known Miss Davis was the last person except Orpet to see the girl alive.

E. C. Orpet told about the cyanide of potassium kept in the greenhouse. The Cyrus H. McCormick estate, where he is superintendents, and Albert Orpet, a gardener, told about burying the poisons as was done by orders of Orpet after "Will" Orpet had been arrested.

Today Is Governor's Day at the Greatest Automobile Exhibition Ever Held in New England

RECORD CROWD FILLS MECHANICS BUILDING

By J. C. KERRIGON.

Today is Governor's Day at the Automobile Show in Mechanics Building.

Governor and Mrs. McCall were to be the guests of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association at a lunch in the Copley-Plaza, and tonight will be the guests of the automobile men at the show. President J. H. MacAlman of the association and a committee of Boston dealers were in charge of the entertainment of the State's chief executive.

All records have been broken, both in attendance and in sales for the past two days at the show, which started its third day today. Yesterday nearly 50,000 visitors viewed the machines, accessories and other interesting things which go to make up the largest and best auto show that has ever been staged in Boston.

Among the most interesting exhibits this year is the chassis exhibit. Practically every make of car has an exhibition chassis, which is in motion all the time. Some of these chassis are set on pedestals, where the intricate works can easily be seen. All of them are placed so that plenty of light is available to show off the different working parts.

CHASSIS GOLD-PLATED.

One of the interesting exhibits is the gold-plated chassis of the Studebaker Company. This is placed on a gold-colored floor mat, with ropes about the machine. The chassis is well lighted and an abundance of lights, cleverly arranged, show how well covered the running gear is plated with the precious metal.

The Oakland booth also has a novel chassis on exhibition. This is from one of their big machines, and is arranged on a swivel, so that the chassis, under power all the while, can be seen in every conceivable position. With the engine under power little lights on the cylinders show which is under fire. Manager Sanborn states that it is one of the busiest booths at the show.

The Buick Company also has a novel idea in showing off its latest model roadster. The machine, cream gray in color, is set on a revolving pedestal, with brilliant lights on all sides of it, and revolves continuously.

The interest of the ladies in the automobile exhibits is shown by the large number that have been in attendance. More of the fair sex have been present at the show than ever before, a fact which bears evidence of their growing interest in the auto.

TRUCKS OF ALL KINDS.

The truck department, which holds forth in the big basement of the building, is one of the interesting spots of the show. Here are trucks of all descriptions, from the little motorcycle delivery sidecars to the big tractor monsters built for large corporations and municipalities. There are trucks and trucks and then more trucks.

One of the interesting is the big motor ambulance built for the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to be used for carrying injured horses. This truck, which is tractor drawn, was designed and built by the Garford Company, who occupy one side of the big basement with their display.

The General Motor Vehicle Company also has a large and interesting display of big trucks in the basement. The Autocar Company has several of its large trucks, already finished for purchasers. One of them is a big oil tank truck, designed for a Boston oil firm.

FIRE APPARATUS SHOWN.

Aside from these trucks there are several lines of motor fire apparatus, which are very interesting, and on exhibition is a motor pumping engine. The truck exhibits have been viewed by many big business men since the opening of the show.

The accessory dealers, of whom there is a small army, reported big business today. Some of them have been making large sales ever since the opening of the show last Saturday. The accessory men occupy the balconies of both the main hall and Paul Revere Hall with their booths, and everything for the auto, from a spark plug to a new engine, can be bought here. The headlight men, with the latest in their line, are much in evidence here, their powerful lights going all day, with the different kinds of "dimmers" on exhibition.

Today the crowd thronged the show from the minute the doors were opened at 10 o'clock, and this afternoon an even larger crowd than yesterday was on hand inspecting the many different makes of machines.

ARTIST'S IMPRESSIONS OF SIGHTS AND SCENES AT THE BIG MOTOR SHOW

Motor Show Notes

Today brought several new auto men from the West who are well-known in the industry and who were unable to be in Boston on the opening day. Reunions are the general thing at the show and in the various hotels.

* * *

Friday night has been set apart by Manager Fogg of the Copley-Plaza as "Automobile Show Night." Supper will be served to the automobile men in the main dining room and in the tea room, and dancing will be held in the Grand Ball Room. There will be special automobile favors.

* * *

F. W. Hawley, of the Hawley-Bowan Company, Boston Saxon distributors, states that the trend of public buying is towards the light cars. "With gasoline mounting skyward every day, buyers realize economics in this direction can be effected through the light car," says Mr. Hawley.

* * *

* * *

Jos McDuffee, assistant general sales manager of the Willys-Overland Company, arrived at the show yesterday. He says that the show is the greatest ever, and even better than the New York exhibit earlier in the year. In speaking of the Overland, Mr. McDuffee states that there will be absolutely no change in any of the Willys products this year.

* * *

Advertising Manager Dickinson of the Hupmobile has also one of the cleverest booths yesterday. He spoke of the neat little Hupmobile poster stamp-book which is being given as a souvenir, and states that it has been popular with the women and children, who are collectors of poster stamps.

The Hupmobile exhibit is crowded in the hall, but a good special show is being held in their salesroom, No. 874 Commonwealth avenue, which has been decorated for the occasion.

* * *

E. M. Chase, of E. M. Chase, Inc., New England distributors of the Owen magnetic car, states that the advent of this machine marks a new era in the history of the automobile. The Owen magnetic has attracted a great deal of attention at the show.

* * *

Sales Manager Bradfield and Advertising Manager Wheelock, of the Velie Motor Car Company, reached the show yesterday and are the guests of Jack Bowman, the local distributor of the car.

* * *

The Panama Canal now has nine Kelly trucks for its service for heavy hauling in the canal zone, says Boston Manager Aultman of the Kelly-Springfield truck. Four of these are 5-ton chassis equipped with 24-passenger bodies, used for transportation of workmen from one point to another. They also have four equipped with hydraulic hoist and dump bodies, and another with ordinary stake body.

* * *

Overhead valves have been criticised by many on account of wearing and becoming noisy. This was attributed to the lack of proper lubricating methods. As a fact, the rocker arms had to be given attention at frequent intervals in order to keep them properly lubricated. "In the new Marmon 34, however, says Frank E. Wing, "we see a new method of overhead valve lubrication. The rocker arms operate on a hollow shaft which is connected to the main lead of the force-feed engine oiling system. When the engine is running the rocker arm shaft is constantly filled with oil which flows through holes in each bearing. The rod is oil tight and the overflow goes down over the tappets. By this method of lubrication on the new Marmon it allows a most efficient oiling system for the rocker arm and gives a quiet overhead valve mechanism."

* * *

"There are more actual buyers to the square inch at this year's automobile show than ever before," said Mr. C. P. Rockwell, New England distributor for Jeffery motor cars. "Years ago the attendance was composed mostly of people who came to see the automobile merely as a wonder of the age, or a novelty to be looked at in much the same way as a sideshow exhibit. They came and gazed and accepted reams of literature and went away without buying."

* * *

The Donovan Motor Car Company, who are showing the Studebaker line, claim the first sale of the show, same being consummated forty minutes after the doors of Mechanics Building were thrown open to the public. It was a retail sale absolutely—a duplicate of the series 17 Studebaker six which this company has on display.

* * *

Much disappointment was shown on the opening night of the show over the fact that the $25,000 Studebaker golden chassis failed to arrive in season to be on exhibition. This wonderful and costly piece of mechanism was held up on account of the heavy snowstorm. It is estimated that 5,000,000 people have seen this chassis during its travel around the circuit of automobile shows, including the exhibits in New York, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, Toledo, Kansas City, Des Moines and Omaha. Notice Manager Joe Donovan's smile over the arrival of the chassis.

* * *

The Chandler people are interested in the coming of James Dunlap, of the Dunlap-Ward Advertising Company, general sales manager of the company.

* * *

Manager Crittenden of the Chandler Company was highly pleased over the great success of the opening. It was particularly pleasing to him from a sales standpoint. He reports big sales.

* * *

Guy Vaughn, sales manager for the Stearns, is in town. Manager John H. MacAlman was delighted over the lifting of the freight embargo, and he sent a telegram immediately on learning the good news to the factory at Cleveland to ship all the cars possible. Manager MacAlman says this is the greatest automobile show he has ever attended.

* * *

F. W. Felton, general advertising manager of the Mitchell car, with headquarters at the factory at Racine, Wis., is in town, and O. C. Friend, general sales manager of the same car, arrived in town today and will spend the rest of the week at the show.

The Wars pleased beyond measure with the appearance of the display, while is in Paul Revere Hall. The picture car on the stage has made a big hit.

* * *

Manager Charles E. Fay is carefully watching the effects of an experiment he is making. He has under observation fifteen new salesmen. This addition to the sales force was recruited from the factory men, and all are showing so much "pep" that they have the older salesmen up on their toes. "This is a great show," said the manager of the Ford agency, "the greatest ever. Do you know that it would take a salesman to sell a gold dollr for ninety cents? I am sure we shall get six or seven good salesmen from these new recruits."

* * *

President MacAlman of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association says whatever was there such an opening as Saturday.

* * *

Gerge E. Daniels, president of the motor car company that bears his own name, arrived yesterday. The Daniels eight, though a new car, is meeing with favor. The body is distinctive and one of much beauty. The Daniels on exhibition are admired for their exacting finish and detail.

* * *

"The best salesmen in any organization are the satisfied customers, and this fact is always kept in mind by the Studebaker force; in fact, our motto has been 'Better no customer at all than a dissatisfied one,'" says George N. Jordan, New England branch manager. "That is why Studebaker has put into practice a most thorough service plan for taking proper care of the owner."

* * *

"While standing beside the chassis which constitutes part of the Metz display, it occurred to me that if people would stop calling this form of transmission friction drive and would use in the place of the word friction the word 'pressure,' that they would understand it better," says Sales Manager W. H. Schwartz.

* * *

J. S. Hathaway, New England manager for the Metz Company, ascribed the present concentrated buying activities to the fact that hundreds of merchants who have experimented with trucks of different makes, have concluded their investigations and have begun to standardize their equipment, while thousands of others, having no opportunity to determine for themselves the most economical and suitable equipment, are profiting by the lessons of those who have already bought their experience.

* * *

"An automobile show is not a congress of motor cars; rather, it is a senate," said Ralph Coburn at the Maxwell booth. "Each manufacturer has a space for representation of his product, but that space is not proportional to his importance or the numerical size of his output. It is true that the big manufacturers are given first preference in the allotment of show space, but this distinction is relative, not proportional."

THEATRES

W'S GLOBE THEATRE—A show of vaudeville features was witnessed yesterday. Among those to appear was George McFaddin, the Irish comedian, in new songs and stories. Nowlin and St. Clair appeared in an original offering of comedy and songs. Alexander and Scott presented a dainty unique singing novelty. The Reckless Trio offered sensational European stunts, combining feminine strength and beauty. Bruce Hanson, the singer, pleased immensely.

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HAIR

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It.

A well-known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process, made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, stimulate its growth and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger.

LOU-TELLEGEN STARS IN "A KING OF NOWHERE"

By FRED J. McISAAC.

LOU-TELLEGEN, the French actor, who has adopted the American stage, married Geraldine Farrar, and generally made himself at home in this community, appeared at the Shubert Theatre last evening. He is the star of "A King of Nowhere," a romantic comedy by J. and L. du Rocher Macpherson.

"A King of Nowhere" is a drama of a type supposed to be extinct as the esteemed dodo. Its scene is laid in England during the reign of Henry VIII., then enjoying its sixth and last wife.

The men wear swords and tights, and the women crinoline. Also they have the announcements for the coming Summer in the fashion magazine.

Lou-Tellegen is a Celtic knight who had been a captive in King Henry's dungeon for two years, and whose wardrobe had fallen away during this period until he looks above the waist like a debutante—outfit and all.

And there is something improper about a man in decolette, especially when he is so thin and overwrought a long neck as Tellegen.

Despite this handicap he fascinates the King's ward, played by Olive Tell, one of the most beautiful girls who ever appeared as a leading woman since the palmy days of Nat Goodwin.

Tellegen is an unusually versatile and accomplished actor.

He has his work cut out for him to make the Celtic knight into a comfortable character. The lines are frequently grandiloquent and the role is generally overdone.

The most interesting and thoroughly consistent part in the play is that of Henry VIII., played by Sydney Greenstreet in the spirit of true comedy, and with a proper regard for history and tradition.

The authors have done well for Henry VIII, but Mr. Greenstreet has done better. Aside from the bluff old king, whose conscience is troubling him because of what he did to his second and fifth queens, Tellegen and the charming Miss Tell, there is no distinguished acting. The company seem at a loss how to behave in their uncomfortable costumes, and the flowery language of Mr. Macpherson did not flow easily from their tongues.

Tellegen, whether you admire his particular type or not, is a striking personality. When he is on the stage you are usually watching him.

The play has good points. There is spirit in the court scene, and the gouty king furnishes many laughs.

ACTORS' FUND BENEFIT—In addition to the many good things already announced for the monster program at the Hollis Street Theatre on Thursday afternoon, the management announced last evening that the following headline vaudeville attractions had offered their services and had been accepted: the celebrated Indian orator and singer, Chief Caupolican, of the Chiefs Arapahoes, in song and speech, and Josie Heather, the winsome English comedienne, with William Casey, Jr., and Bobbie Heather, from Keith's Theatre; "The Broadway Stars," Cecile Weston and Louise Leon, Sandy Shaw and the George's David Family, and Merlin, the talking trickster, from Loew's theatres. And besides all this will be seen Henry Miller and Ruth Chatterton in "Fredericke Lantrec," Lou-Tellegen and company in the third act of "A King from Nowhere," William B. Friedlander in "Five Minutes with James Whitcomb Riley," George MacFarlane in Scotch songs, Charles Ruggles and Mabel Ford of "Rolling Stones" Company in "The House of Russell," John Craig and company in an act from "The Circus Girl," an act from "It pays to Advertise," Georgia Gfrauey, Chaney Girls, Freddie Nice and Ada May Weeks from "Around the Map" company and Blanche Bates in a "Heart-to-Heart Talk with Women." The advance sale of seats has been extraordinarily large but there are still a few good seats left in all parts of the house.

WALDRON'S CASINO—The story of "The Redemption of Kitty," the chief burlesque presented this week by the Rosey Posey Girls, has to do with the use of a love potion which makes persons of the opposite sex fall in love with one another, makes the miser pay his debts, makes the grandmother miserly and in general sets things topsy-turvy. When it is known that the book is witty, the music and the dancing of the best, the scenic and costumic outfit of a sumptuous character and the players one of the best companies in the Columbia Amusement Company's wheel, one can get a fairly good idea of the variety entertainment provided. Among the well-known entertainers in the company are Mamie Hanlon, the very pretty and talented young woman, who has a leading feminine role; Harry Bentley, Clare Evans, Harry S. La Van, Walter Pearson, Billie Davis, Earl and Marie Gates, Kitty Mahoney and Flo and Ollie Sherlock. The show is distinguished by its dancing features. The best of these are contributed by Gates and Gates and the Sherlock Sisters. Another of the scenic features are "The Spirit of '76," battleships in action, mammoth American flag and Miss Bentley producing impersonations of a half-dozen theatrical celebrities. The Rosey Posey Girls show has about all the factors demanded nowadays by the burlesque theatres. There are daily matinees.

GAIETY THEATRE—"Jean Bedini's Big Novelty Show" is positively and absolutely one of the best burlesque shows seen within the city limits. Now that we have fully established our position, we will, for the benefit of those who have in their hearts the desire, but not the realization of seeing this show, say that "Jean Bedini's Big Novelty Show" as its name, is original and unusual. Reviewing this burlesque, musical comedy or top-notch vaudeville you may fittingly call it, it is hard to grasp any outstanding, especially unusual feature, because the entire show is along absolutely new lines. Jean Bedini, the same old Bedini whose juggling skill of yore made us ponder, wonder and gasp, is the head of the organization, which includes such lights as Pam Lawrence, Mae Holden, Helen Lorayne, Ben Grinnell, Harry Jackson, Charlie Mac and Sidney Vincent. Well, but instead of telling you a whole lot of things about this show, we will just ask you a few questions and answer 'em yourself. Do you want to see the screamingly funniest "acrobatic" show ever attempted? Do you want to see three of the most beautiful little soubrettes that ever made a good-looking chorus look like thirty cents? Do you want to see "Daniel in the Lion's Den?" Do you want to hear two of the cleverest minstrels ever heard, see some of the newest jokes, enjoy original or last-minute music or beauty in all conceivable forms? Do you? Well, like a shot right to the elatety and ask the treasurer to put you right near the stage.

LOEW'S ORPHEUM THEATRE—A splendid program of vaudeville features was witnessed by large audiences yesterday. The headline honors were given Conrad the Great, the world's greatest monkey actor, who has added to his specialty his daughter, Betty, making one of the greatest educational monkey acts in vaudeville. Betty keeps the house amused with her funny stunts. Another feature on this program was Harry Breen in one of his inimitable offerings, Yio and Lynn, eccentric violinists, pleased with their musical efforts. Lewis La Quinlan Trio offered their aerial novelty. Collins and Manning offered a dainty number of dances and songs. Charles Smith presented a playlet entitled "Sheet of Sands." Grace and Odell Rose appeared in unique dance creations. The feature photo-play was Hamilton Revelle in "The Price of Malice." The Pathe News was also shown.

MODERN THEATRE—Mary Pickford in her newest film feature, "Poor Little Peppina," was shown for the first time yesterday. It is a photo-play that fits Miss Pickford's capabilities most perfectly, one that will undoubtedly please the hearts of millions of admirers, for it has the quaint appealing character of a little girl of Italy, a role that is entirely different from any one has hitherto attempted. It is a well built and connected story written by Kate Jordan, and tells of a girl who has been kidnaped when a child and handed over to some Sicilians who abuse her, and from whom she escapes, fleeing to America in the disguise of a boy. Arriving in New York she has many adventures as a newsboy, bootblack, peddler and messenger boy.

PARK THEATRE—Thousands were turned away at the opening of the Castle picture, "The Whirl of Life," yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, the world's famous couple, are featured in the big photoplay, and it is the story of their lives in six powerful acts, full of thrills and dancing. Truly, Mr. Castle is a genius. His feet have made him a fortune, and his pen will double it, no doubt, in this picture. One feature production is the Castle Glide, which plays a prominent part throughout the picture. This picture was made just before Mr. Castle sailed for England, where he enlisted in the Aerial Corps of the English army. Many beautiful costumes and scenes are featured in this production. The bowling on the program is Mae Murray, the beautiful Lasky star, in Mavis Johnson's famous novel, "To Have and to Hold," which is a thrilling romance of the early Colonial days in Virginia, a Paramount production in five acts.

LOEW'S ST. JAMES—A well-balanced vaudeville program was witnessed yesterday. Among the features were the celebrated Broadway favorites, Weston and Leon, who pleased with their repertoire of music and comedy bits. Others were the Max Oben Troupe, ten sensational Arabian acrobats. Burke, Burke and company presented an Irish musical skit entitled "Casey's Visit." Quinn and Mitchell offered their new satire, "The Bunken Goode Gold Mine." The "Hawaiian Duo," Downes and Gomes, offered a revue of high-class songs. The feature photo-play was George Behan in "The Pawn of Fate." The Pathe News was also shown.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—"Twin Beds" will return to Boston for two weeks beginning next Monday. Seats went on sale today.

Plays That Remain

PLYMOUTH THEATRE — George MacFarlane in a bright and entertaining romantic play, "The Heart of the Heather," in which he sings several songs and plays a dashing role.

WILBUR THEATRE—Last week of "It Pays to Advertise," one of the brightest of recent farces, and which deals with the problem of advertising in a very amusing way.

MAJESTIC THEATRE — William Hodge, in "Flying Sixteen," a comedy in which Hodge's personality is capitalized and which is paying big dividends.

COLONIAL THEATRE—"Around the Map," the most elaborate of spectacles and most wonderful of the Columbia Amusement Company's wheel, one can get a fairly good idea of the variety entertainment provided. Among the well-known entertainers in the company are Mamie Hanlon, the very pretty and talented young woman, who has a leading feminine role; Harry Bentley, Clare Evans, Harry S. La Van, Walter Pearson, Billie Davis, Earl and Marie Gates, Kitty Mahoney and Flo and Ollie Sherlock. The show is distinguished by its dancing features. The best of these are contributed by Gates and Gates and the Sherlock Sisters. Another of the scenic features are "The Spirit of '76," battleships in action, mammoth American flag and Miss Bentley producing impersonations of a half-dozen theatrical celebrities. The Rosey Posey Girls show has about all the factors demanded nowadays by the burlesque theatres. There are daily matinees.

GAIETY THEATRE—"Jean Bedini's Big Novelty Show" is positively and absolutely one of the best burlesque shows seen within the city limits. Now that we have fully established our position, we will, for the benefit of those who have in their hearts the desire, but not the realization of seeing this show, say that "Jean Bedini's Big Novelty Show" as its name, is original and unusual. Reviewing this burlesque, musical comedy or top-notch vaudeville you may fittingly call it, it is hard to grasp any outstanding, especially unusual feature, because the entire show is along absolutely new lines. Jean Bedini, the same old Bedini whose juggling skill of yore made us ponder, wonder and gasp, is the head of the organization, which includes such lights as Pam Lawrence, Mae Holden, Helen Lorayne, Ben Grinnell, Harry Jackson, Charlie Mac and Sidney Vincent. Well, but instead of telling you a whole lot of things about this show, we will just ask you a few questions and answer 'em yourself. Do you want to see the screamingly funniest "acrobatic" show ever attempted? Do you want to see three of the most beautiful little soubrettes that ever made a good-looking chorus look like thirty cents? Do you want to see "Daniel in the Lion's Den?" Do you want to hear two of the cleverest minstrels ever heard, see some of the newest jokes, enjoy original or last-minute music or beauty in all conceivable forms? Do you? Well, like a shot right to the elatety and ask the treasurer to put you right near the stage.

BOSTON THEATRE—Booth Tarkington's great American novel, "The Turmoil," in five parts, with Yalh Valli, the beautiful stage star in the principal role, is the principal picture feature offered the first half of this week. This is a powerful story of love and business competition in a small city in the Middle West, and abounds in thrilling scenes. As a novel, it is considered one of Mr. Tarkington's best works.

TOY THEATRE WILL BE THE FROHMAN

THE FROHMAN corporation has purchased the Toy Theatre on Dartmouth street, near the Copley-Plaza Hotel, for $750,000, and on April 1 it will become the Frohman Theatre. Recently the playhouse has been known as the Copley.

This will be the first playhouse in the country to bear the name of Frohman.

The corporation known as the Boston Museum Company, Inc., will make several changes, including the enlargement of the foyer. Gustave Frohman will be managing director; Edward A. Meyenberg, business manager, and Miss Clara Barteaux, director of children's plays and musical attractions.

The transfer of the Toy Theatre means much to Boston, according to the Frohman interest. Not only is it significant as the inception of another permanent theatre for the presentation of the legitimate drama, but it marks the establishment of a permanent children's theatre.

During this month before the transfer becomes effective, the new production of "Peter Pan" will be presented to Boston Burnett's children's play, "Hawkett's Packett's House," produced here by a professional cast.

Later there will be produced "The Little Princess," and two plays by Susan Thayer Bowker, "The Magic Rose," and "Midnight to Portland."

As a permanent theatre for the presentation of children's plays, the Frohman Theatre will offer matinee performances on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons and Saturday mornings.

Coming Events

TREMONT TEMPLE—Miss Evelyn Scotney returns for the final concert of the season, March 16. A tenor new to Boston, but who has been having a sensational success in the concert field throughout the country will make his debut at this concert. He is George Dostal, styled "The American lyric tenor," a man who can take a high it with ease and who is as familiar with English songs and ballads as operatic music. Howard White, the popular basso of the Boston Opera Company, will complete the list of artists. The program has been chosen from request numbers submitted by the patrons of the course and is popular to classical.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Cyril Maude will soon be back in Boston again for another engagement. When he was in Boston last year his engagement in "Grumpy" was cut short by reason of its success and it has been possible to arrange for another engagement here. "Grumpy" will be his vehicle.

COPLEY THEATRE — Two plays by playwrights by the French players proved of unusual interest and merit. Miss Norton, his wife, Laura Nelson Hall and a Mrs. Brown, (Margaret Lewis).

Dainty little Josie Heather, a winsome English comedienne, charmed with a number of songs, assisted by William Casey, Jr., and Bobbie Heather. Another attraction was The Chief Caupolican, a South American orator and singer who was thoroughly informed as to the white man's habits. The second week was devoted to Parisian song and French, Italian and Spanish to prove his neutrality, said he never left Boston.

Other attractive acts were Wallace Bruno and Nevena Morris, "In Love Another Day Dusting and Dusting Francis in their new comedy, "Love Business," the W. Hoefli Ensemble, in a dancing sensation, "In the Gypsy Camp," Herbert's Lapdog-Loop and Leaping Contest and the latest Vitagraph News, showing news pictures from all parts of the world.

SHUBERT THEATRE—Miss Yvette Guilbert, who recently gave three matinees in Boston, which were attended with extraordinary success, will appear for the next two matinees on the afternoons of March 9 and March 11.

ALL STAR BILL PLEASES AT KEITH'S

McINTIRE AND HEATH, the inimitable German delineators, returned to Boston for the first time in many years, were welcomed at Monday's matinee and made a return of natural funcking throughout the bill.

Their success was largely dependent on the comical value of fresh air—rapid and unexpected. Their work was clever, but the laughs would undoubtedly be enjoyed even on the stage.

William Morris appeared in his original character of Frank Fuller, in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," a comedy written by himself.

In an effort to aid his friend, Jack Temple, played by Lou Lindlard, he becomes involved in an amusingly funny mixup with Mrs. Temple (Florence Norton) his wife, Laura Nelson Hall and a Mrs. Brown, (Margaret Lewis).

Dainty little Josie Heather, a winsome English comedienne, charmed with a number of songs, assisted by William Casey, Jr., and Bobbie Heather. Another attraction was The Chief Caupolican, a South American orator and singer who was thoroughly informed as to the white man's habits. Relief in Tuberculosis

Depends largely on the patient's ability to digest and assimilate food and upon a return of natural functioning throughout the body.

Scott's Emulsion depends on the nominal value of fresh oil—rapid and thorough digestion of the oil—and the finished product reflects these worth while objects to be gained. Those who have taken Scott's Emulsion appreciate its benefits, but there are not always others to be desired results unless aided by nature's ally, fresh air. Scott's Emulsion Alterative has succeeded in many cases where the oil alone failed. It has effected lasting benefit.

SIMON SWIG REPORTED TO BE WILLING CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

allow quilts and coverlets enough for so many guests in such nipping cold.

Representative Harry Wombill of Melrose was first to bed. He is six feet three and weighs around 200. It takes a lot of coverings to keep that much of a legislator nicely warm, so Harry helped himself to about all the coverlets he saw and smuggled into bed as cozy as a bug in a rug.

MANY CALLED, SOME FROZEN.

But it was a case of the first man in bed was the best covered up and some others were not fully protected against the seeping cold of the morning after. So they up and dressed and away.

It was allowed today, however, by all who heard the coverlet story that it was purely a manifestation on Simon's part, and that under the pressure of public matters a host might easily forget his bed clothing and other coverings for the outer man in his and over furnishings for the inner man. Of the latter there was no stint.

The main attraction at the dinner table Thursday was chicken—roast—with baked potatoes. Simon gave his clients as an entertaining host full play, and conversation moving briskly and made everyone feel thoroughly at home.

Making guests feel welcome is one of Simon's great assets, according to his admiring guests. Simon said today that he is a disciple of William Shakespeare regarding merry greetings. He quoted from "The Comedy of Errors," thus:

"Small cheer and great welcome make a merry feast."

Simon referred only to the "great welcome." He does not believe "small cheer" helps a festive occasion.

Before the guests left they adopted unanimously a resolve that the Concord Lodge party was simply in a class by itself.

Adding to the gaiety was "canned music" from the grapho-phone. It was an unusually intelligent machine. The last air it ground out was:

"That's the Way of the Politicians."

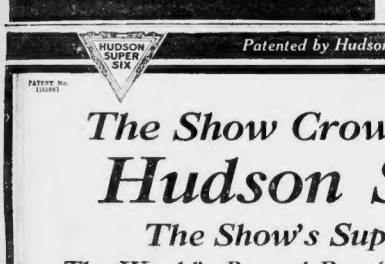
The selection became pretty well clarified by today regarding the mystery of "Who's Who at Simon Swig's."

As it turns out, there were really two banquets. The first was given by Mr. Fay some weeks ago at his Winter home in Dorchester, and was attended by some of those distinguished legislators that Simon said were at Newport the other night.

Speaker Channing H. Cox was at the first banquet, according to Senator Wilton H. Fay of Medford, who says that he, personally, went in his official capacity as chairman of the Committee on Banks and Banking. Mr. Swig is a member of that committee.

Representative William W. Kennard of Somerville, the Republican floor leader, says that he "dropped in for a minute," and Representative Alvin E. Bliss of Malden, the Republican "whip," is mentioned by Senator Fay as among those present.

Several others were present and the list of guests included, so Senator Fay says, none other than Thomas F. Pedrick of Lynn, the dignified sergeant-at-arms of the Legislature. Senator Fay stopped only long enough to taste a grape-fruit, he says, so he can't recall whether Pedrick wore his silk hat or carried his official staff (wooden staff), or not.



Ideal Wife Is Discovered by Court in Ohio

Cincinnati, March 7.

"IDEAL wife" was the term applied to Mrs. Anna Fronriter by the Ohio Court of Appeals, hearing her claim for $75 a month allimony from John C. Fronriter, to whom she was married forty years ago.

"We cannot think of a more faithful and exemplary helpmate," Appellate Court opinion reads. Mrs. Fronriter washed, ironed, mended and made clothing for her husband and their seven children. We cannot conceive of any wife who has been more faithful and zealous in saving that her family might advance."

MAYOR THROWS NEW LIGHT ON ICE BIDS

The Mayor declared today that he had information that tended to show the existence of interlocking directorates between the Boston Ice Company and the Independent Ice Company. He said:

"Information has been brought to me that in the case of Corey vs. the Boston Ice Company, it was disclosed that Corey or someone else owned 509 shares out of 1,000 of the Independent Ice Company; that Corey or some other was a director of both the Boston Ice and Independent Ice Company, and that the directors of the Boston Ice Company elect the directors of the Independent Ice Company. I have forwarded this information to District Attorney Pelletier."

"I think that Corey was at one time head of the Dorchester Ice Company, which was said to have been driven out of business by the Independent Ice Company. There are rumors that allis not pleasant between him and his associates in the ice business, and there is a big row on in the Boston Ice Company. If this is so, Corey might open up on the Boston Ice Company. Directory of directors might give some information."

When the bids for ice were opened this year for furnishing ice to the City Hospital, only two bidders appeared out of six invitations. They were:

Boston Ice Company $4 per ton.

Independent Ice Company $4.50 per tons.

Last year the Boston Ice Company had the contract at $3.40 per ton. The Mayor ordered the bids readvertised.

MAYOR GIVES UP CONSTABLE CLASH

Mayor Curley declared today he would not press the appointment of John J. Sullivan, whom the City Council yesterday declined to confirm as constable. He said: "It is not worth while. The Council is trying to start a quarrel with me."

Eliot Finds Drink Bill Each Year Is $2,200,000,000

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT, president of the American Federation of Sex Hygiene, has prepared a table on expenditures not classed as necessaries of life. It shows that every year three times as much wealth is wasted through the drink habit as is expended for anything else mentioned except tobacco. The table:

Intoxicating liquors	$2,200,000,000
Tobacco	1,200,000,000
Jewelry and plate	800,000,000
Automobiles	600,000,000
Church work at home	250,000,000
Confectionery	200,000,000
Soft drinks	120,000,000
Tea and coffee	100,000,000
Millinery	90,000,000
Patent medicines	80,000,000
Chewing gum	13,000,000
Foreign missions	12,000,000

WATCHMAN DROPS DEAD IN EVERETT

Albert W. Staples, a night watchman employed at the General Electric Works in Everett, dropped dead while going about his rounds early today. He was found by another watchman. Death was due to heart failure. He is survived by a wife, one daughter and a son.

U.S. 'ARGONAUTS' OFF TO SOUTH AMERICA

Washington, March 7.—A group of American Argonauts today set sail from Washington to discover the golden fleece of South American trade. They were headed by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, and among the other adventurers were Assistant Secretary Andrew J. Peters of Boston, Samuel Untermyer of New York, John H. Fahey of Boston, Senator Fletcher of Florida, Archibald Kains of San Francisco and Paul M. Warburg of the Federal Reserve Board. Mrs. McAdoo accompanied the party with other ladies.

This group comprises, with the exception of John Barrett Moore and Judge E. H. Gary, the United States section of the International High Commission on Trade Relations Among the Americas, and is bound for the congress of the entire high commission to be held at Buenos Ayres on April 3.

The party left Washington today on the President's yacht Mayflower, but will transship at Hampton Roads tomorrow to the cruiser Tennessee. The party is due to arrive at Buenos Ayres March 31.

Closer trade relations, improved communications and a fuller understanding of business conditions in all the nations of the American continents are sought by the high commission. The opening up of a new trade which will furnish a new outlet for American goods is expected to result from the trip.

PLUMBER IS GIVEN 4 MONTHS' TERM

Dudley O'Malley, claiming to be a South Boston plumber, who went to the home of Ludwega Tosca on Athens street to fix a leaky pipe, was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction by Judge Logan on charges of assault and battery and larceny. The woman said in court that Dudley attempted to throw her out a window.

CAPTAIN JORDAN IS DISTRICT CHIEF

Captain Francis J. Jordan of Engine 18 was today appointed district chief by Mayor Curley to take the place made vacant by the retirement of District Chief Madison. Chief Jordan was appointed to the fire department in 1891. Lieutenant Edward F. Doody of Engine 21 was appointed a captain to fill the vacancy made by the promotion of Chief Jordan.

HUDSON SUPER SIX — Patented by Hudson December 28, 1915 — HUDSON SUPER SIX

PATENT No. 1165861 — TRADE MARK REGISTERED

The Show Crowds Center at the Hudson Super-Six

The Show's Supreme Attraction

The World's Record-Breaker Car—80% More Efficient

MARK the booth at the Show which attracts the most people. Go to the centre of the thickest crowd. There you will find an epoch-making car. It has opened new fields of motor enjoyment. Without added size or cylinders, it provides all that was sought for in Eights and Twelves.

This master motor—called the Super-Six—is an exclusive Hudson feature. It is a Hudson invention, controlled by Hudson patent No. 1,165,861. And its price, in the most luxurious Phaeton, is only $1375.

IT DELIVERS 76 H. P.

You will see here a motor small and light, simple and economical. We have added no size, no cylinders to add weight and complications.

The cylinder capacity is 288 cubic inches—like the Hudson Six-40—the ideal motor size.

But the Super-Six in that size delivers 76 horsepower. That is 80 per cent more than the best of former like-size motors.

All this is accomplished by simply ending vibration. By attaining such smoothness as never before was known. So it means an equal increase in the luxuries of motoring.

WASTE IS ENDED

And that 80 per cent was simply lost heretofore in vibration consumed within the motor. We save that waste.

No more power is created—no more fuel consumed—at any certain motor speed. But the utter smoothness delivers all that power into performance.

It gives you 80 per cent more reserve power for hills and mud and sand. It gives the quickest response ever known in a car. It avoids gear changing—gives you matchless flexibility. Feats impossible before are performed without evident effort.

All this, remember, through the ending of vibration, a motor's greatest foe. So it means more than fuel economy. It means engine economy.

Wear in this motor is reduced almost to zero. And it means vast tire economy by saving gear-changing jerks.

It also means new luxury of motion. Riding is like flying in this vibrationless car. The motor is almost forgotten.

In all these ways the Super-Six out-matches every other motor, in ways so evident, so well-proved that all men must concede them.

NO POSSIBLE RIVAL

The Hudson Super-Six supremacy is clear and indisputable. Official tests have proved it. And any comparison under any condition will prove it to your satisfaction.

This is the world's greatest car. Three times its price can buy no car to match it.

The best of all types—Sixes, Eights and Twelves—have been completely routed by the Super-Six.

So, if this year you want a superlative car, it must be the new-type Hudson. Any other fine car must lose its attraction when out-matched by 80 per cent.

COME TO OUR BOOTH

Don't let the crowds deter you from seeing the Super-Six. It is this year's chief exhibit.

Then, now or later, test it on the road. Four demonstrating cars are now in service at the Show.

Motoring as you know it will seem tame after one Super-Six performance.

Ask us to take you for a ride today in the Super-Six—we will happily do so even though you do not consider the purchase of an automobile, for we want to acquaint as many people as possible—as quickly as we can—with the operation of the Super-Six marvel motor—which establishes a new and undreamed of standard in automobiles.

Come today for your ride—we invite the opportunity to have every one learn by personal experience the reasons why this patented automobile—through eliminating vibration—smashed all world's stock car records.

The World's Record Breaker

A 7-Passenger Super-Six Makes Fastest Time for Touring Cars up to 100 Miles, in Official Tests, Under A. A. A. Supervision.

100 miles in 80 min., 21.4 sec., averaging 74.67 miles per hour, with driver and passenger.

The best previous stock car time was made by a car with more cylinders, more cylinder capacity and driver only.

75.49 miles in one hour with driver and passenger.

Some laps were made at 76.75 miles per hour.

70.74 miles in one hour, carrying 5 passengers, with top and windshield up.

The best previous time for stock car similarly equipped was made by a car with more cylinders, more cylinder capacity, and with two passengers only.

Standing start to 50 miles an hour in 16.2 sec.

All these Hudson records were made with the same stock car, using the same motor, at Sheepshead Bay Speedway in November, under supervision of the American Automobile Association.

During these tests the car was driven 1350 miles at top capacity, at speed exceeding 70 miles per hour, without discernible wear on any part.

An endurance record seemingly impossible.

Proving the most powerful motor per cubic inch displacement that the world has ever known.

A Powerful Motor

Here is the car that all the world has waited for.

Here is the car that all the world is buying faster than we can produce.

You've got to have a car.

But you don't have to pay a large price. Nor do you have to be satisfied with a small, uncomfortable car which keeps you in a state of mental dissatisfaction and physical discomfort.

The $615 Overland solves the problem.

Electrically Started

Seats five comfortably—no crowding or jamming.

Electrically Lighted

Cantilever rear springs—

Soft, deep upholstery built up over long spiral springs—

And four-inch tires.

Absolutely Complete

It has a powerful and snappy en bloc motor—

Is electrically started and electrically lighted—

Has electric control buttons on steering column—

And all the very latest touches of up-to-dateness and refinement.

Unusually Large Tires

Only $615.

And that's complete. Everything with it. Nothing extra to buy.

You've got to have a car. Order this Overland.

'MOTHERS' DAY' IN BOSTON BRINGS OUT GREAT BABY WEEK CROWD

"Mothers' Day" in Boston "Baby Week" brought out the motherhood of the Metropolitan district, despite the rain and slush, in numbers today to various lectures, demonstrations and exhibits, all illuminating the vital subject of infant welfare.

There were gatherings of mothers at lectures in department stores, which have been booming "Baby Week" with tremendous energy, at the Boston Public Library Hall and at the Pilgrim Church at Upham's Corner in Dorchester.

At the store of William Filene's Sons' Company Miss Mary Beard and Mrs. Thomas Sherwin gave morning lectures. At 3:30 Mrs. Robert A. Bradley spoke on "The Importance of Protecting Babies from Flies."

Miss Beard, the opening speaker of the morning at the Filene store, is head of the Boston District Nursing Association, with a staff of eighty nurses. She is also connected with the pre-natal department of the Women's Municipal League, of which Mrs. William Lowell Putnam is president. Mrs. Putnam was scheduled to speak but was unable, so Miss Beard kindly substituted for her.

LOW RATE IN NEW ZEALAND.

Miss Beard cited the low infantile death rate in New Zealand, which has been reduced to 51 per 1,000. She went on:

"We women of Boston and Massachusetts could do the same if we were once really aroused to possibilities. Instead of 194 deaths for every 1,000 births as is the case now in Massachusetts, we could bring it down to half of that.

"Prenatal care of infants is as important, if not more so than care after birth. Prospective mothers should be in touch with doctors and nurses who know when any abnormal condition exists which might affect the baby's health.

"The District Nursing Association recorded 2,536 visits made by its nurses last year to prospective mothers. There are in Boston and Cambridge three clinics devoted to these expectant mothers. Those have become important factors in the health of babies in Greater Boston.

"These clinics do much to give confidence to young mothers who are destined to listen to many disturbing and exceptional stories by gossipy neighbors. It is now possible for any one seeking information and advice at the time of birth to refer to any one of the many stations where district nurses are stationed. A call on Hack Bay 6470, the headquarters of the District Nursing Association, will result in information as to where and how to secure the assistance of both doctors and nurses."

DEMANDS CLEANER STREETS.

Mrs. Thomas Sherwin, of the Women's Municipal League, followed Miss Beard with a description of some of Boston's dirty streets. She pointed out the grave dangers to babies lurking in the filth and rotten fruit. She made a plea for cleaner streets and up-to-date methods of sweeping, by which the dust is sucked into a tank, much as by a vacuum cleaner.

At the Jordan Marsh Company's store Dr. Wilson G. Smillie of the department of preventive medicine of Harvard Medical School gave a morning lecture on "Milk." At 3 o'clock Dr. Edwin H. Place, chief of the south department of Boston City Hospital, spoke on "Precautions Parents Should Take Against Contagious Diseases." Both lectures brought large attendance.

Dr. Smillie illustrated his talk on "Milk" with lantern slides showing conditions under which milk is produced in many places in this State. He said in part:

"Drink pasteurized milk and avoid disease germs. It is often thought that when milk is produced under the best conditions that the milk will be clean," continued the doctor, "but I wish to correct this impression. One of the worst epidemics in this city came from an up-to-date dairy. It is not enough to have clean conditions but all milk should be heated to 145 Fahrenheit.

CARELESS MILK HANDLING.

"There is so much careless handling in milk. Housekeepers will take the milk bottle and be ashamed to put it upon the table at the meals. It is better to see the milk in the bottle than in pitchers which may be more aesthetically correct, but endanger the quality of the milk. The milk bottle is a much better receptacle for the milk than the dirty pitcher is.

"You are more safe with milk in the bottle preserved for that purpose, than otherwise.

"Nothing is more used by adults, as well as infants, than milk, and for this agitation about clean milk will result in lasting good."

At the Houghton & Dutton store there were afternoon lectures by Dr. Orville R. Caldwell on "Speeding Up Infancy," and by Dr. Wilston V. Barker on "The Use of Proprietaries."

BABY TABLE.

Large red cardboard placards in the baby department of the store bear a series of "ifs" relating to baby's welfare. The infantile "if" table reads as follows:

Baby will be unhappy and cross:
1—If fed at the family table.
2—If fed at irregular times.
3—If allowed to go thirsty.
4—If not kept clean and dry.
5—If taken to the movies.
6—If bounced up and down.
7—If bothered by flies and mosquitoes.
8—If given a pacifier.
9—If dosed with medicine.
10—If teased and made to show off.
11—If not a fresh-air baby.

The afternoon program also included the following lectures and other events:

Public Library Hall—2 p. m., Mrs. Max West of the National Children's Bureau, "Parental Care"; 3:30, Dr. Maurice R. Kelly, "Feeding by the Microbe"; 8 p. m., Dr. Marie Knudson, "The Care of the Child at Birth"; Dr. Annie Lee Hamilton, "Parental Care"; Professor Gunn, "Child Welfare."

Dorchester—Upham's Corner mass meeting, 3:30 p. m., at Pilgrim Church.

South Boston High School, 3:00 p. m.—Mass meeting under auspices South Boston Mothers' Club and Massachusetts Women's Club. Speakers, Dr. John A. Ceconi of Boston Health Department, Miss Mary Crawford, District Nurse Association and Miss Jones of Milk and Baby Hygiene Association. Illustrated with moving pictures.

East Boston High School, 2:45 p. m. Reception, lecture and tea, with Miss Mary Beard as speaker.

Cambridge, 2 p. m., exercises at Webster and Willard Schools, 3 p. m., illustrated lectures by Dr. M. E. Champion, district health officer, at Thorndike and Fletcher Schools.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by neutralizing the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

Louis Agassiz Archer, the well-known up and infants cured under improper pl Hanthropist of Lynn, for a motion conditions picture scenario that will depic most It was suggested by Mr. Archer as a graphically and accurately the cru- "Baby Week" feature, and the AMERI treat between babies properly brought CAN was authorized to announce and manage the contest. Only clergymen can compete. There is no restriction as to denomination or residence.

Manuscripts must be sent to Scenario Contest Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 88 Summer street, Boston, and all scenarios must be in by midnight of March 31. The AMERICAN reserves the right to publish these manuscripts, and will return them to the authors. The scenarios must be original. Judges, to be selected later, will pass upon their merits. The winning manuscript will be produced on the screen, with the name of its author, and the proceeds of exhibits will be contributed to the National Mothers and Babies' Fund.

The keynote of the scenario must be the urgency for properly rearing a baby and giving it a proper start in life. An illustrated story could preach a sermon on baby care. No previous experience as a writer of scenarios is required. All that is sought is an original and convincing scenario.

RULES OF THE CONTEST.

1. Only clergymen are eligible to compete in this contest. There is no restriction as to residence or denomination. All employees of the BOSTON AMERICAN and their families are barred from participating in the contest.

2. The contest will consist of moving picture sketches, or scenarios as they are called. These must be written on one side of the paper only, and as they are short, they should be typewritten.

3. The scenarios written for this contest must deal with the underlying theme of the "Better Babies" movement. They must give striking presentation of three facts, to be conveyed to ladies supposedly ladies with babies who lack proper raising for the future. The baby raised in accordance parents in proper manner can be compared with the baby raised in ignorance of those advantages and opportunities and the care it should have to fit it for its adult years. The treatment of the subject is left to the individual contestant's judgment may, of course, draw upon their experience in their practical work.

4. Contestants may submit as many scenarios as they desire.

5. The scenarios must be original.

6. Send your scenarios by prepaid mail only. It is absolutely necessary that the package be fully prepaid as to postage rate, as most of this character goes to Infancy as first class matter. The AMERICAN reserves the right to refuse to receive packages for which postage rates are not fully prepaid. The AMERICAN will not be responsible for any answers unless sent by registered mail and addressed to Scenario Contest Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 88 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

7. Number your scenario, giving it any name you choose, and write your name and address in the upper right-hand corner of the first page of your scenario and the number of words it contains. Write on one side of sealed envelope and a copy of paper with which you write.

8. Scenarios must be mailed so as to reach the office of the BOSTON AMERICAN by midnight of March 31, 1916.

9. The prizes offered in this contest will be the property of the National Mothers and Babies' Fund, and the AMERICAN will be glad to receive from the authors a list of all persons who may desire to take part in moving pictures of the scenarios submitted in this contest, and all proceeds will go into the fund.

10. No scenarios will be returned to the authors. The AMERICAN reserves the right to publish parts of the scenarios submitted in this contest, with the exception of the prize winning scenario.

11. The AMERICAN reserves the right to withhold the prizes in this contest if in the opinion of the judges none of the scenarios submitted are worthy of publication.

12. The AMERICAN reserves the right to reject any scenario at any time. In case the contest must be in default, every scenario received will be duly considered, and the decision of the judges will be final and the prize awarded to the author of the scenario considered best.

13. There will be one prize, an award of $100 in gold, which will be awarded by the judges to Louis Agassiz Archer, Lynn, Mass., for the scenario which, in their opinion, is the best submitted in the contest.

SEES HIGH-PRICED CREAM IN NEW RATE

As the milk rate hearing today before Examiner Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Thomas Darlington, Jr., of the Boston Creamery, testified that the new rate proposed by the Boston & Maine on cream would raise the price of cream 4 to 5 cents.

C. H. Talbott, Belchertown, Mass., and a milk producer, called the cream rate a blessing to the farmer, and spoke against the leased car.

BAKER NOMINATION SENT TO SENATE

Washington, March 7.—President Wilson this afternoon sent to the Senate the nomination of Secretary of War Baker, former Mayor of Cleveland, to be Secretary of War.

SAYS ARREST HAS HURT HER HEALTH

Miss Bertha Copenhagen of Washington street, South End, arrested last May on a charge of embezzling $15, and who was found not guilty of the charge, told Judge Ball and a Suffolk jury that as a result of the arrest she has "been a ton of strength and health and was taking doctors for treatment."

Miss Copenhagen received the ring from Nathan Nadleman, her fiance, as an engagement present. She was recently discharged after Probation Officer Fred. Sasson, to whom Nadleman had secured the diamond on a lease.

OVER 1,500 ATTEND CHEVERUS BALL

More than 1,500 persons attended the sixth annual ball of Bishop Cheverus Assembly of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus, at Symphony Hall, last night. Among the notables there were Mayor and Mrs. Curley, Postmaster and Mrs. Murray, District Attorney Pelletier and a reported absence of the orders in Timothy Hannigan, the supreme master of the New England Knights of Columbus, Miss Julia Agnes Donnelly of the order, and Daniel J. Gallagher, State secretary of the order.

The grand march was led by Mayor and Mrs. Curley, Mr. and Mrs. Hannigan and Mrs. Francis J. D. Fergusson. In the second line were Postmaster and Mrs. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. O'Dowd.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM TWICE

Experience Proved That There Was Nothing "Just As Good" as Father John's Medicine for Colds and Throat Troubles and As a Body Builder

The victim of an unscrupulous druggist in Pennsylvania has grown sage that when he asked for Father John's Medicine the druggist persuaded him to take something else which was "just as good," according to the clerk.

"I might just as well have taken so much water," the sufferer continues. "I afterward went back and got Father John's Medicine and in a short time I felt the good effects. It increased my weight, gave me strength and helped my brain and body."

In some localities this practice of substitution by druggists is an evil quality of vast proportions. The unscrupulous druggist who forces upon you a different preparation when you call for Father John's Medicine is doing you an injury.

Remember that Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, pure and wholesome, free from opium, morphine, chloroform or any other narcotic drug or alcohol and with a history of more than 50 years' success in the treatment of colds, throat troubles and as a tonic and body builder.

Begin taking it today; it will make you strong.—Advertisement.

GUARD RUBBER PLANT DURING STRIKE

Twelve policemen guarded the plant of the Hood Rubber Company of East Watertown today, fearing trouble with 250 strikers from the making room. Superintendent Gilfillen reported that not more than fifty were on strike, but a meeting of strikers held in a nearby hall today was attended by close to 200. It was reported that most of the employes in the making room had walked out. The Hood Company runs an open shop. Recently the making room hands asked for an increase of pay from $12 to $13 a week and it was granted.

'Hodcarriers Are Better Paid Than Teachers'

New York, March 7.—The hodcarrier gets more wages than you do. Your professional spirit perhaps puts you above the hodcarrier, and apparently gives you a feeling of superiority. You are the poorest paid and least considered of all our public servants."

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, made this declaration to a meeting of teachers in the De Witt Clinton High school. They were gathered to make the first definite move to form a union.

The labor leader came from Wilkesbarre, Pa., to aid in organizing the 29,000 school teachers of New York.

WITNESSES TELL COMMITTEE OF MONEY GIVEN TO FOSTER

with the committee and advised it.

Representative Lyle read a statement comprising all his charges. He declared that when he spoke to Foster regarding his collections, the latter replied:

"Why, don't you let it drop? You'll be taken care of all right."

LYLE GIVES NAMES.

Lyle testified he had received information concerning the activities of Foster in collecting money from Senator Charles G. Brown of Gloucester, Sylvanus Smith, Jr., a Gloucester coal dealer and secretary and treasurer of the Ten Associates, property owners on the proposed highway; Vice-President Hobbs of the Boston & Maine and many others, including prominent business men.

Representative Lyle was followed to the witness stand by Harry Dutton, of the firm of Houghton & Dutton, and Sylvanus Smith, Jr., of Gloucester, who testified to being asked for money by Representative Foster.

Representative Lyle testified in part:

"One day in the Board of Trade in Gloucester I was called over in a corner by Charles Way and together with ex-Senator Sylvanus Smith, he asked me if I knew that Representative Foster was collecting money from people interested in this legislation. I informed him that I did not know it and did not approve of anything of the kind, and that if such was the case I thought I would refuse to be associated with it.

"Mr. Way showed me that morning a letter from George Harvey of Boston, addressed to Sylvanus Smith, Jr., of Gloucester, stating he had contributed some money and that Mr. Foster would call on him for his share in the money."

MENTIONS SUMS.

"Senator Brown informed me that Foster had also collected some money from fish firms in Gloucester interested in harbor developments. He stated that he had been told that Gorton-Pew had given $100, Cunningham & Thompson $50, and Archer Bradley, for the Sylvanus Smith Company, had given $75.

"A little before that time I had received a letter from Sylvanus Smith, Jr., a coal dealer in Gloucester and an officer of the Ten Associates," that Foster had called on him for money and asked my advice in the matter (the Ten Associates owning land in the vicinity of the proposed road). I wrote and advised him not to pay.

"Thomas Reed of Gloucester told me that Foster had not asked him to contribute for the road, but had asked him to contribute for harbor development. He refused to have anything to do with the matter.

"About that time I met Archer Bradley, who told me he had contributed $25 toward harbor developments.

"On January 7, 1916, I was told by Ch. Rockport Selectmen that a rep. who evidently appeared for Foster, had asked the town to contribute to the highway project. The board refused.

TALKED WITH FOSTER.

"Timothy Sheehan of Gloucester told me that Foster had asked him to help to get money from those interested, and that he had done so. He refused to give me the names Foster had given him, saying that while he knew it was bad business, he did not want to do anything to prevent the bill going through, as he and his friends were interested. He also said he would do nothing more toward helping to collect funds.

"On Monday of the following week, at the State House, Mr. Foster borrowed from me the bill the County Commissioners had drawn up and did not return with it for two hours. I should have said that a few days before this I had put the matter of collecting right up to Mr. Foster, and he told me that it was for releases. I told him I knew better than that, and asked him to refund the money.

"He told me to be sensible and I would be used all right. I told him that he had mistaken his man, and then he replied that he had turned all the money over to an attorney and would show me in time what would be done with the money.

"Mr. Foster admitted he had collected money and brought before the Committee on Roads and Bridges Johnson, Jackson, Walsh, who stated that Mr. Foster had turned over to him $400. He admitted that it was paid all in cash and could remember no check."

Harry Dutton testified that Foster came to him and said he must have some money for the road bill, and witness told him to go and see George W. Harvey.

Sylvanus Smith, Jr., said Foster suggested the Ten Associates contribute $50, but that he told the Representative he had no authority to collect, without a vote of the associates. Foster then suggested, according to the witness, that he call a meeting of the associates and act on the matter.

MENTIONS $50 DONATED.

The witness testified that he received a letter from Mr. Harvey, and that later he told Foster the associates would pay. This was before he was notified not to do so by Representative Lyle. The witness testified that F. C. Rockwell, a Summer resident, told him he gave Foster $50.

President Charles A. Way of the Ten Associates said Foster told him he wanted the money to give to a lawyer named Walsh.

Portsmouth, March 7.—The Morley Button Manufacturing Company is to erect a paper mill on Islington street. Bids for the construction work will be opened soon.

TAMMANY FEAST ON THIS EVENING

Plumbers, painters, chauffeurs, contractors, everything but motion picture scenario writers, will be present at the annual feast of the Ward 17 Tammany Club at the Quincy House this evening. The boys of the club have been sharpening their appetites since Sunday. The big chief, Mayor Curley, who is not too proud to orate, will be present in his finest feathers. The employes, members of the club, have received nicely lettered invitations at a dollar per. The topic of the evening will be "Preparedness."

SEVEN MORE MAY DIE IN FIRE AT JAIL

El Paso, Tex., March 7.—The death list resulting from the explosion of a tub of gasoline in the city jail yesterday may go to twenty-five. In addition to the eighteen burned to death seven others are injured so badly they may die. While Mexican prisoners were being bathed with gasoline as a preventive measure against typhus some one threw a lighted cigarette into the tub of liquid. Most of the fifty prisoners who escaped during the fire that followed the explosion are still at large.

ELECTRIC AUTOS GROW IN FAVOR

F. Nelson Carle of the General Vehicle Company has some interesting data on the progress of the electrically propelled automobile. Speaking on the changes and improvements in the electric vehicle during the past year, and its rapidly increasing adoption as a commercial passenger car, Mr. Carle says:

"There has been no sudden, illusory spurt of popularity in the progress of the electric vehicle; rather it has been a gradual, steady growth, forming a good strong foundation upon which to build up its ever-increasing business."

BETTER WEATHER FOR TOMORROW

A mild, clear day is promised for tomorrow by Weather Forecaster Smith. Following that there is to be a moderately cold spell.

The snow which fell last night amounted to five and one-half inches. Walking in downtown streets today was anything but pleasant. The mildness of today's temperature made the crossings like miniature rivers.

The majority of the cars coming from the suburbs were delayed owing to the many wagons which used the tracks.

A strong southwest wind was blowing along the New England coast. A thick fog over the harbor made navigation dangerous.

SAFEST and BEST

DON'T be satisfied just to say "Oh, yes, and fill my oil can." Know what it's going to be filled with.

It is now possible to buy kerosene by name and be sure of what you are getting. From now on, our kerosene product will be sold under the trademarked name Socony (So-CO-ny) Kerosene Oil. Ask for Socony and you're sure of getting the best.

Every gallon of Socony Kerosene conforms to definite quality standards. It is water-white in color, and burns cleanly without smoke, smell or wick-crust.

Socony Kerosene Oil is so much better than ordinary kerosene that it is decidedly worth asking for by name. Grocery, hardware and general stores which sell Socony Kerosene Oil all display the Socony sign.

Look for this sign. It is a quality sign—the sign of a reliable dealer.

We recommend the following oil burning devices as the best of their kind: New Perfection Oil Cookstoves and Water Heaters, Perfection Smokeless Oil Heaters, Rayo Lamps and Lanterns.

Every single part of the Dort is a feature. The quality goes clear through—and this is known quality.

The Dort sells for $665.00 completely equipped with the very latest type of Westinghouse Starting and Lighting—the same system you will find on cars that sell for $5,000.00 and up.

From the very first the Dort has scored a success. Now it is dominating its price-class. Engineering experts have been surprised to find the price so low. Dealers have flocked to handle the Dort, some of them taking entire trainload shipments of these cars. Motorists have been quick to recognize the Dort as an unprecedented value.

F. O. B. Flint, Mich. Complete with Westinghouse Electric Starting and Lighting.

Why the Dort Has Made Good

No car at anywhere near its price has the horse-power, sturdiness, class, dependability and all round thorough going quality of the Dort. No car in its class is so well equipped.

Westinghouse two-unit starting and lighting; Connecticut ignition; Detroit demountable rims; Jacox irreversible steering; the Dort dual exhaust, which adds 12% increased horse-power to the long stroke high speed Dort motor; 50⅛x2-inch full cantilever rear springs; hand painted body with deep upholstery; Stewart-Warner speedometer, gasoline gauge and all control buttons on instrument board, directly in front of the driver; these are examples of Dort thoroughness of detail.

Boston was one of the first cities in the country to seriously take up motoring. Boston people know motor cars. The Dort is not new to them. Dort cars have been running about their streets for months.

After the most searching examination and the severest tests Boston has placed its O. K. on the Dort—the climax of approval, but the same O. K. that New York, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, and the other automobile shows, where the Dort has been exhibited earlier in the season, were quick to accord the Dort.

Inspect this "all-feature" car at the Boston Automobile Show. Don't miss the Dort. Go over the specifications carefully. Note every feature. Your own eyes will convince you of the extra quality that is in the Dort everywhere.

It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it. Its use—all drug stores recommend it. Its use—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is wonderful, the only safe hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to have pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Advertisement.

STRONG ODOR OF GAS ALARMS BACK BAY

Residents of the Back Bay district were terrified early today by an overpowering smell of what they thought illuminating gas, which flowed into houses in the vicinity of Commonwealth avenue and Gloucester and Hereford streets. So powerful was the gas that many were awakened by odor.

Telephone girls on night duty in the Back Bay telephone exchange in Belvidere street were also affected by the gas smell, which flowed into the building. A few of the girls were momentarily forced to quit their stations at the switchboards until they recovered from the effect of the gas.

The first notice of the gas was at the home of J. Woodley Clark at No. 32 Hereford street. Members of the Clark family were awakened by the penetrating odor. They immediately communicated with police headquarters by telephone, and all the available officers at the Back Bay police station were sent out to hunt for a leak in a big gas main.

At the same time, the gas company was notified by Patrolman Jeremiah Mahoney, on duty at the Police Headquarters' switchboard. The gas company sent out a number of their employes, some of whom were hastily roused from their beds, to hunt for a leak. After searching the whole district both the police officers and the gas men were forced to give up without finding any particular gas leak.

The occupants of nearly every house in the vicinity were awakened by the strong odor, and individual searches were taken up by the servants in each house without result. Many also called up Police Headquarters to tell of the presence of the gas.

The gas, by degrees, left the neighborhood. It was later explained by the police to have come from the burning oil used by the railroad company in the freight yard in Huntington avenue, to thaw out the switches, to keep them free during the snowstorm.

STABLE BURNS AT EAST SANDWICH

East Sandwich, March 7.—A large stable on the estate of Mrs. Robert A. Hammond was totally destroyed by fire. One of the men employed about the place is said to have attempted to thaw some frozen water pipes with a torch and to have left the torch while he went into an adjoining building.

2 ALARMS FOR FIRE IN DEWEY SQUARE

Boston's wool district was threatened by a two-alarm fire early today which damaged the eight-story brick building at No. 222 Summer street, opposite the South Station.

The chief damage was on the sixth floor, occupied by John H. Daniels & Son, engravers and plate printers. Other floors in the building also suffered serious loss.

Fireboat 41 from the water front fed a stream of water which was directed by the men of Ladder 18 from an alleyway in the rear of the building.

Patrolmen Bell and Gleason discovered the fire after both had smelled smoke and had hunted for half an hour through the wool district in search of the source of the odor. They finally observed smoke issuing from the sixth floor windows of the damaged building and at once turned in an alarm.

At first it was all smoke, and it took the firemen ten minutes or more of hunting through the building to find any blaze. The flames were attacked with vigor, the firemen striving to confine the blaze to the rear of the building. The work was difficult because of the dense smoke which poured through the building.

The damage, according to Chief McDonough, amounts to $10,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

'Happy' Plans Novel Souvenir for Big Cabaret

A beautiful souvenir in four colors, drawn by George Musaphia and portraying a scene at a masquerade ball, will be presented to each of the first 500 women to arrive at Convention Hall on the evening of March 10 when the famous Happy Twenty cabaret and ball will take place.

The work is brilliantly executed, and will be cherished by all the women who receive it as a reminder of the biggest event of its kind which was ever presented in Boston.

The souvenir is but one feature of many which have been secured through the tireless efforts of "Happy" King of the Newsies," in his desire to make the affair the last word in popular entertainments.

In connection with Bill Lang, boss of the cabaret, he has spared no effort to secure the best talent obtainable, and the guests will be treated to a program which will cause booking agencies to gasp with amazement.

Those who do not care to devote their entire time to watching the performers, may go upstairs and trip the light fantastic to alluring music furnished by a band led by "Alexander the Great."

The dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and will last until 2. The cabaret is scheduled to begin at at 10 p. m. and finish at 4 in the morning. However, "Happy" declares that he has secured so many performers, each of whom is a star, that the constellation will continue to twinkle, unless the length of the hours after the discovery of the murder of the family of the florist

ROPER MURDER CASE BEFORE GRAND JURY

Lowell, March 7.—The Middlesex County Grand Jury, sitting in Lowell, completed today its investigation of the murder of Albert W. Roper, the wealthy Tewksbury florist, who was found dead in his greenhouse, and whose son, Albert J., is held without bail on the charge of having struck the blow that killed him.

Although no report of the work of the Grand Jury is expected for several days every effort is being made by William H. Wilson, young Roper's attorney, to strengthen the alibi on which he relies to establish the innocence of his client.

Prominent in this defense will be the story of a young woman who drove in the same buggy with Mrs. Josie Fox to Watt street, Roxbury, where young Roper resumed. This new witness heard Roper's door squeak, and particularly noticed his peculiar footstep, as he left his room at a time Wednesday night, which would have made it impossible for him to have been in Tewksbury as claimed by the police and the street car crew who believe he rode with them.

This car crew testified to the Grand Jury, young Roper boarded a 9:30 Concord car in Tewksbury. Conductor Frank H. Farmer of Tewksbury, who was the first police official to be called to the Roper greenhouse after the discovery of the murder of the family of the florist

Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick headache, is said to be due to the retention of uros in the system. Often it is stated that a poor condition of the blood is a cause of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition; and in certain cases, no doubt this is true.

Where treatment is demanded, it is more for the pain than anything else, and Dr. A. F. Scheichmidt of Louisville, has found anti-kamnia tablets to give prompt and satisfactory relief. Rest should be insisted upon," he says, "and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and all the attendants and family should be as quiet as possible. An emetic will sometimes shorten the attack. The bowels should be kept open with "Actids"; a hot bath and a thorough rub-down with a coarse towel, often give grateful relief. Two anti-kamnia tablets when the first signs appear, will usually prevent the attack. During an attack, one tablet every hour or two will shorten the attack and relieve the usual nausea and vomiting." These tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for nervous headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

For Rough, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

As March winds, flying dust and dirt are apt to injure any complexion, this information will be of special value right now. If you have any cutaneous blemish, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's much easier to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercolized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, moth patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches or any surface eruption. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for one ounce of mercolized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple, harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or furrows, a wash lotion made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel will prove wonderfully effective.—Advertisement.

Safe Home Treatment for Objectionable Hairs

(Boudoir Secrets)

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hair or fuzz, for with the use of plain delatone the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

Society Notes

One of the smartest of early Spring weddings is to be that of Miss Dorothy Morgan to Paul Courtney on April 8. Miss Morgan, the daughter of George M. Morgan of No. 160 Clarendon street, made her debut three years ago. Her engagement was announced last Summer.

At the wedding in the Arlington Street Church the Misses Alice Thorndike and Elizabeth DeFord will be bridesmaids, and Miss Miriam Mason, a sister debutante, engaged to Walter H. Trumbull, Jr., will be maid-of-honor. The event is expected to bring out a large society contingent.

3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Means Gallant Going Over All Kinds of Roads

The swift, silent breathing of the unique engine of the new 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers is faster than that of any other car on the road.

Without gasp or throb, this weird, aluminum-lunged beast inhales a mist of gasoline through the tiny nostril in its carburetor so rapidly that it can spin its motor at the supreme velocity of 3400 revolutions per minute.

But the high-speed engine of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers means automobile attributes not measured in mere speed alone.

It means the whole gamut of performance most desired by men and women who demand more from a car than a beltful of racing records.

Chalmers engineers have translated superlative engine speed into the composite boon of pick-up, poise, and power.

The versatility of this vehicle has won it the vigorous O. K. of every person I know for whom it has performed.

The 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers does everything a car should do. It wrings 18 miles of gallant going out of every gallon of gas, a mile a minute if you're keen for speed.

Always there is the feeling of velour beneath my accelerator foot.

This car has the liveliness of a spirited mare, with a Pullman-like stability that keeps your back-seat passengers from rattling around like peas in a pod, which happens in so many other light, fast cars.

This able Six is heavy enough and so finely poised that its four wheels stay always on the ground, with direction as straight as a bullet.

By transforming this car's superabundance of brute might into all-round performance, Chalmers engineering has saved you from $150 to $200 worth of fuel per year.

So it's a sane and sensible buy from every slant—and the smart ones whose sense of values hasn't been blunted by prosperity are dropping around with their check-books.

MORAN IS IN RARE SHAPE

Challenger Scarcely Draws Deep Breath After Long Workout in Westchester Gym.

By ED. CURLEY.

NEW YORK, March 7. — Frank Moran, the sorrel-topped lad from Pittsburgh, who is getting ready to box Jess Willard ten rounds at the Garden, March 25, is sojourning up around Westchester. Francis came to town Saturday, but did not make his public appearance until yesterday.

For the past two weeks he has been up at Saratoga chasing the bumble rabbit and sailing a scooter over the frozen lake. Judging from his appearance these sports made him good and fresh.

Despite the cold morning Moran called his trainers together and took them for a jaunt over the frozen roads of Westchester. They followed him as far as they were able and felt very happy when he made a detour which brought them on a homeward path. The jaunt used up about an hour.

D. O. F. WATCHES MORAN.

When Moran went to the gym there was quite a gathering of leading citizens to give him the "up and down." Moran went through a short boxing program. Instead of boxing with the same partner for two consecutive rounds Frank insisted that they alternate.

Tom Egan, six feet, five inches, was the first victim. Thomas was not much of a partner for Frank, and it is probable he will receive his conge shortly.

Frank Kendall then carried Francis along for a fast clip. The defier of Willard tore in at Kendall like a bull and for these two minutes the spectators were treated to some action. When Kendall finished Egan again took up the battle and stopped a few hard swipes.

Kendall followed and another good two-minute round was on tap. When he finished boxing Moran was scarcely draw a long breath and he wrestled with plenty of vim.

GOES THROUGH OLD STUNTS.

After tossing the gloves away Frank took a turn at yanking the pulleys and made the old ropes hum. When he wound up working the pulleys, the medicine ball was put in action. This is child's play to Frank and he hated to stop.

Willie Lewis, the eagle-eyed trainer, kept pulling the watch on Moran and had to shout several times for him to stop. There is no doubt that Moran is in excellent shape almost good enough to walk into the ring within a few days, and there is no question that he intends to face Willard as fit as humanly can make him.

As to his confidence, there was nothing P. Moran ever undertook that he didn't feel positive he would get away with.

HERRICK RETURNS AND TAKES CHARGE

With Coach Herrick of the Harvard varsity crew back at Cambridge, after a trip West, the practice session was much more spirited than usual. Howe Volkman, 16, who is back in good health, was returned to No. 1 in the second varsity boat, while Ken Culbert was switched to No. 6, taking H. S. Middendorf's place. The latter is laid up with a heavy cold. No other changes were made in either the varsity or freshman boats.

RED AND BLUE WINS BASKETBALL TITLE

Ithaca, N. Y., March 7.—Pennsylvania won the Intercollegiate Basketball League title by disposing of Cornell, 19-8, in a hot finish game on the University Armory floor. With the score tied at 9-9 McNichol of Penn converted a foul called on Sutterby into a point, settling the contest.

BOY CRACKS CLASH IN 600.

English High and Dorchester High come together in a dual track meet in the East Armory this afternoon. The clash between Brigham and Corrigan in the 600-yard run bids fair being the hit of the games.

Nash and Abbot in Squad of 52 at Harvard

Fifty-two candidates for the varsity and freshman baseball teams are working out daily in the cage on Soldiers Field. Yesterday there were high hops to land places in the infield and outfield, looked in on Coach Fred Mitchell, limbered up a bit, and then were chased to the Locker Building.

"Contrary" is the watchword of Coach Mitchell to the catchers, just as it was last year with "Doc" Sexton on the job. Four signs with this crisp reminder are still posted about the cage. Then, too, Mitchell varied his work yesterday by requesting all the varsity fielding candidates to spend five minutes working with the chest weights.

Captain Nash, first base; "Mickey" Reed, shortstop, and George Abbot, second sacker, were the veteran infield defence men on hand for action. Frank Fripp, who is slated for third base, stayed in his street clothes. He has a slight attack of water on the knee, but hopes to get rid of the ailment before the players get outdoors.

The remainder of the infield and outfield men were largely "green" material.

SEVEN MEN THROWN IN JIFFY BY LEWIS

By International News Service.

New York, March 7.—"Strangler" Lewis did some record wrestling at Madison Square Garden last night. He threw seven men in 12 minutes and 4 seconds. One of his victims was downed in 3 seconds. Lewis first took on Hans Furst and he pinned the husky German's shoulders to the mat in 2 minutes with a body hold. His other victims were: Great Dane, 2 seconds; Al Muller, 2 seconds; Joe Vogel, 40 seconds; Olaf Nelson, 2 minutes, 36 seconds; Hermann Schilling, 1 minute and 15 seconds, and George Bayley, 5 minutes and 35 seconds.

Dr. Roller made Tommy Draak quit in 20 minutes. He got a toe and head hold, which the Hollander could not break, so rolled over and gave the struggle. Nicholek Zbyszko threw Hans Assan in 4 minutes.

ST. MARK'S PICK BIGELOW

Southboro, March 7.—Edward Bigelow of Boston, was the unanimous choice for captain of next Winter's St. Mark's School hockey seven. St. Mark's and Groton clash in their annual game here Saturday.

Eastern Doubles At Longwood; Start July 24

By International News Service.

New York, March 7.—The dates for the sectional championship tennis doubles, the sectional portion of the national championship, were announced last night by George T. Adee, president of the National Tennis Association.

The western doubles will be decided at the Longwood Club, Boston, beginning Monday, July 24.

The western doubles and the preliminary championship matches to bring out the challengers of W. M. Johnston and C. J. Griffin will be played at the Onwentsia Club, Chicago. The western doubles will begin Saturday, August 5. The preliminary with the eight sectional winners will be played Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 16, 17 and 18.

The Pacific Coast Association will name its own date, probably about July 1. The other sectional dates will be named next week.

TWO MAT MEETS FOR TUFTS THIS WEEK

Manager Minnott Given of the Tufts wrestling team has arranged to have the M. I. T. and Huntington School squads compete against the Brown and Blue in the Goddard gym this week. M. I. T. will call tomorrow afternoon and Huntington School will be entertained Friday.

Several Tufts wrestlers, who missed the intercollegiate tournament in the Hemenway gym last Saturday night, will be seen in action in this week's matches. Dr. Louis R. Burnett plans giving all candidates a chance in this season's meets, so he can single out the prospective men for a winning team next Winter, when the sport will be given the full support of the Tufts A. A.

Both meets this week will start at 4 p. m.

BROOKLINE LANDS TRIANGLE BUNTING

Brookline High's hockey seven won the Triangular League championship, at the Brookline reservoir, by flaying Cambridge Latin, 4-0. Captain Ted Fennessey and his charges were in rare trim. Fennessey, playing on right, throughout, shot three goals, while Follett made the other count. Barnes O'Hearn also starred for the winners.

BOXING BRIEFS and GOSSIP

JOE McCARTHY assures Johnny Lore, the Canadian lightweight, with Walter Butler, the Revere ironman, at Woonsocket tonight. They are billed to step twelve rounds, with Joe Vargas of Cambridge and Young Gibbs of Woonsocket, two promising 126-pounders, on in the semi-wind-up.

LORE has met the best of them in the lightweight class and it is McCarthy's claim Johnny will clean up all the N. E. 135-pounders just as soon as he gets the desired local bookings. Lore has gone on with Freddie Welsh twice and also met Joe Mandot, K. O. Brown, Eddie Haddean, Young Shugrue, Gilbert Gallant, Ted (Kid) Lewis and Johnny Dundee. His wins were not many, but in most of his big goes he was practically right there with his foe at the final bell.

GREENFIELD rings up the curtain tonight. The dashing Terry Brooks and Dave Powers, the Middlesex blonde, are carded to clash in the main mugs.

IT is a sure-enough high-class card the B. A. A. has built for Friday night. Al Shubert of New Bedford, who ranks with the game's premier bantamweights, and Eddie Campi, the scientific Californian, meet in the big number.

MANAGER BENNETT advises members here to make reservations early. It smacks of the big jam of the season and he knows the B. M. A. A. is almost sold out for the doors.

PLYMOUTH gets back on the boxing map Thursday night. It has Young Clancy of South Boston and Eddie Flynn of Peabody booked up to twelve rounds, with "Kid" Smith, billed as the lightweight champion of the Navy, and Bobby Hasley of Cambridge, and Young Stanley of Cambridge and Harry Kelly of the North End in the six-rounders. George Byers will be on the job as referee.

DAN McGINNIS, former national amateur 145-pound champion, has gone under the management of J. Karl Armstrong at the B. A. A. at an early date.

CHELSEA FIVE IN FRONT.

Chelsea High's basketball five landed in fifth place in the Interscholastic League by defeating Revere High, 37-29. Dykeman of Chelsea was the star performer.

Ad Wolgast Easy for Welsh in Milwaukee

Milwaukee, March 7.—Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, easily defeated Ad Wolgast, former titleholder, in a ten-round battle here last night before 5,000 fans.

It was Welsh all the way; in fact, he won every round. Ad was outclassed at all stages except in hitting strength. His punishing power did not get him much, as he could not land effectively.

The blocking of Welsh was little short of marvelous. Both men were high in weight at 3 o'clock, it being decided in the morning to make it a catchweight affair.

Freddie got on the scales and showed 135 pounds. Wolgast was at 137, an astonishingly high notch for him.

MELROSE SHOWS CLASS.

BIG BOYS TOP BILL AT HIP

Middleweights Grande and Howard on Edge for 12-Round Bout at the Armory A. A.

TWO middleweights of renown, Johnny Howard of Bayonne, N. J., one of the best of the East's new crop of 158-pounders, and "Sailor" Grande of California, a far West star, clash in the main number on tonight's Armory A. A. card, at the Hippodrome and, sans a kayo, will step the usual 12 rounds.

Officials of the Armory A. A. are confident they have booked two fellows who will "go over big," to borrow a showshop expression.

Howard has been battling with the topliners in the middleweight division of late months and has bagged most of his starts. Likewise does Grande own a swathy swat average.

POPULAR PRICES PLEASE.

"Instituting of popular assessments for the Triple A members, from fifty cents to $2, has in no wise detracted from the usual fine list of attractions," states Matchmaker Lewis. Danny Morgan of New York, who handles Jack Britton, Matt Wells and "Battling" Levinsky, three of pugdom's most notable winners, has Grande in tow. He claims the "Sailor," who is certainly constructed on formidable lines, is as good as they come among the 158-pound brigade and is confident his starter is going to register the desired big set.

As for Howard, he is one of the East's high steppers, so better known locally than the California marine. Still, Johnny, the same as Grande, will be making his Boston debut tonight. The two big fellows hooked up in Philadelphia a short time ago and their six-round skirmish is reported to have been jammed full of fireworks and a bruiser of a scrap.

PRELIMS ARE SPICY.

Al Reidy of Chelsea and Tommy McFarland of the North End will have it out in the semi-windup. They are very so-so battlers and should pull a stiff eight-rounder. The four-round bouts will be offered by Teddy Murphy and Steve Phillips, handlers of Herb Rand, the former looming up as the best bet, and Young Brusso and John Camp.

RING RESULTS

New Bedford, March 7.—"Billy" Cosmos of New Bedford was declared the winner over Frankie Rowan of Milwaukee on a foul in the second round at Elm Rink. "Kid" Demers gained his usual knockout by stopping Frank Cyr in the fifth round. Joe Anderson of Berlin, N. H., had all the best of his ten-round mix with Andy Allen of New York.

DIARY OF JESS WILLARD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

New York, Tuesday, March 7.

It was shortly after 6 o'clock when I woke up yesterday morning and a glance at the sky convinced me that some sort of a storm was ready to break. Calling to Walter Monahan and Jack Hemple I got them to shake off the blankets and slip into their running togs.

It wasn't later than 6:20 that we hit the street leading into Central Park. Being rested up immensely, after the easy Sunday, I went out at a hot clip. When we hit the road circling the reservoir the three of us were tearing along at a good clip.

There was nothing encouraging in doing road work, for everything seemed to be spiritless and heavy. No sooner did we finish a lap around the reservoir than we struck out for the drive, which promised to be more lively.

Up the drive we jogged until we struck Grant's Tomb. When we passed that famous spot we threw on high speed and started home like a 90 horsepower auto. We went up and down those hills as if a posse were at our heels, so that when we arrived at the hotel all hands were dripping with perspiration.

Run Produces the Desired Appetite.

We hustled up to our rooms as fast as the lift would take us. Then all of us cast off the muddy, wet clothes and got into a good hot bath. After bidding good-bye to the tub I received my usual massage.

That being over I dressed slowly and waited for Monahan and Hemple before we made an attack on the breakfast table. It was 8 o'clock before we sat down to eat and you can rest assured we did justice to the food.

We quit the dining room around 9 o'clock and nobody would leave the hotel, for outdoors didn't appear any too inviting. Tom Jones hove on the scene about this time and we retired to his room to talk over the big bout on March 25.

For nearly two hours we reviewed the past week and I want to say for both myself and my partners that we are perfectly satisfied with the way matters are progressing. It is asking too much of any man to get right down to fighting shape in six days of training, but I will say that the past six days have done me a wonderful lot of good.

Getting Lighter and Eye Sharpening.

I have taken off a few pounds and taken them off without the least bit of difficulty. My eye has sharpened up considerably and I know my footwork has become faster. My three advisers agree with me that this is all I could desire.

After finishing with this part of the program the consultation went on to consider plans for this week. It was agreed that the boxing would be increased to eight or ten rounds and that plenty of bag punching would be an asset as far as developing speed in snapping punches.

In boxing one's partners it is the natural thing to "pull" your punches, which isn't the best thing in the world. After a few more days of work the men that box me will wear heavy rubber headguards which will enable me to be more free with my blows.

When this was all settled it was decided to engage George Rodel as a sparring partner. This is rather strange, in a way, for the Boer was one of my hardest antagonists before I conquered Jack Johnson.

My last fight with Rodel was down in Atlanta, Ga., and every person who was present will admit it was the most thrilling battle that ever took place in that city. It was my good fortune to win by a knockout, but before that sleep punch came around Rodel took a terrific beating. Some fans may accuse Rodel of having a yellow streak, but every time I fought him he was as game as they're made.

BRAVES REACH MIAMI

Eastern Division, Arriving at 2 A. M., Crowded Out of Hotel. Bill James on Deck.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

MIAMI, Fla., March 7.—This personally conducted tour arrived in town at 2 o'clock this morning to find that for the rest of the night we must keep aboard the car, Manager Stallings wired Trainer Jimmy Nearey while we were up the line, saying that the hotel would be full for the night.

On the trip through Georgia and Florida the party amused itself playing cards and reading.

Steve Yerkes, formerly of the Red Sox, but now of the Chicago Cubs, was aboard the train for a time yesterday afternoon. He quit the p[arty] at Jacksonville, being en route to camps.

Those of the Braves who came in direct with Manager Stallings, as well as the delegation from the Twin Cities and Northwest had a weekend on Little Braves Field yesterday. As Bill James got in from California and Dick Rudolph arrived from New York early in the day, both were allotted out by the Boss. Fifteen athletes went through the work, and as the weather was fine the first official session came off to all requirements.

James looked big, but says he is in no condition as yet to show his famous right wing curves, and will, during the Winter at his home in Colfax, be content if he will be able to get in trim by the time the Braves took it easy for several days. Still, every one who watched him pitch today is sure he will be in good shape when the season opens here on the last Saturday in April.

Rudolph is practically ready. He worked out in the cage at Williams College the greater part of four weeks before starting south and in charge of that school's battery candidates and his good work there proves he was conditioning himself on the side. Already in fine shape, he professed that Rudolph will probably be on the mound for the Braves in the opening championship game.

The new field looks good to Stallings and his players. Business Manager Maynard has booked up a few games with the United States Army team at Key West barracks for March 15 and 16. The soldier boys are said to have a sweet ball club.

When all hands assemble today the Northern squad not having officially been ordered to Miami as yet, Stallings plans a general talk with tomorrow for the start of the real training.

DENIES DUNDEE TO RUN OUT OF MATCH

New York, March 7.—Scotty Monteith indignantly denied today a report that his boxer Johnny Dundee was seeking an excuse to run out of his match with Benny Leonard, scheduled for Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Dundee had the hardest kind of a workout today, in stories of Leonard's new hitting power, and was about to ask for a postponement on the grounds that he needed more time to get in condition.

ROGER GETS MUD-HENS.

Chicago, March 7.—Roger Bresnahan, deposed manager of the Cubs, has secured permission from the American Association to transfer the Cleveland franchise to Toledo. Bresnahan will have Toledo people as partners.

Benny Kauff to Get Bonus; Going to Marlin Sunday

NEW YORK, March 7.—It was learned today that Benny Kauff and the New York (National League) Baseball Club had practically come to terms and that the former Federal League slugger would leave for Marlin next Sunday in company with President Harry Hempstead.

It is said that Hempstead has decided to give Kauff the $5,000 which he agreed to pay Benny as a bonus for signing the three-year contract when he leaped from the Brooklyns last Summer.

WHEN WOMEN FIGHT

When women fight in politics
They throw no lowdown vulgar bricks,

How sweet they are and how polite,
When women fight!

Jess Willard was interviewed by our special correspondent, Lydia Pimple, last night, on the split purse charges made against him by Frank Moran.

"Frank Moran," he said, wrapping his mauve kimono about him, and brushing back the straw hair from his alabaster brow, "is the dearest friend I have. He is the most charming companion I have ever met. I cannot conceive why he has made these infamous charges against me. We have done great work together in relieving the public of fatty degeneration of the bank roll. It was only last week that we climbed on a street car together and I said: 'I got a dime in my mitt. Let me pay for it.' And he said: 'All right, go ahead!' The big stiff. I know he was persuade on his nabs!"

Frank Moran in an interview last night denied emphatically that there was any enmity in his charges of purse splitting against Jess Willard. "Jess and I are the dearest friends," he said. "Of course, we do not travel in the same social set, but that is no fault of his. He is the most charming young man I have ever met. For several months we have worked together for the uplift of the public, but I really got a fourth that he was holding out on me. He still remains my dearest friend, even though he is forty-seven years old if he is a day, and eats peas with his knife."

NEW YORK BOWLERS ARE OFF IN FRONT

New York, March 7.—Jimmy Smith and Glenn Riddell of New York got off with a head of 146 pins in their intercity bowling match at the Touraine alleys here tonight, and Tony Kerkendox and Jimmy Blouin of Chicago seven games were bowled and 12 consecutive ten strikes. The two crack bowling teams will meet again today and tomorrow, and go to Chicago.

400,000 TO ASK RAILS APPEARED RAILROADS FOR 8-HOUR DAY

By International News Service.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 7—A concerted demand upon the railroads of the United States for an eight-hour day by 400,000 employes in the train service is assured by the favorable vote being polled in the referendum conducted by the four railroad employes' organizations.

Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. T. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will leave with the executive committees of the two organizations for Chicago tonight, carrying with them more than 200,000 ballots. The vote will be canvassed and probably will be announced immediately. It is probable that the formal demand for the eight-hour day will take the form of an ultimatum naming conditions upon which the men will remain at work and giving the roads thirty days to answer. A proposal to arbitrate is expected to come from the railroads.

DULL IN THE MARKET

By BOERSIANER.

Motor and munitions corporation shares and the stocks of a number of other industrial companies advanced in a manner and degree reminiscent of the boom days of last year.

An illustration was Crucible's flight from 73 to 79¾. Two other examples were Baldwin Locomotive and Butte & Superior. Both rose 4 points. The rails, although strong and of a declining forward bent, were relatively dull, which indicated that the session was chiefly of a speculative character.

The nervously precipitative covering was not satisfactorily explained. The reason could not have been the moderate amount of investment buying of the specialties. Overnight, the market is undoubtedly much more professional than it is overbought, speculatively.

Still there was nothing in the day's diplomatic or foreign developments to have stampeded the professionals in half a score of stocks.

Private intimations that the House would make trouble for the President should be no surprise. The speculation of armed merchantmen, became generally known early in the day but these could not have been the impelling force. Nor were the unofficial bulletins from Verdun sufficiently definite or reliable to have been influence.

Perhaps a spontaneous and simultaneous nervousness seized the "tape" that was impelled them to balance the account. The inexplicable is often the explicable of change.

From time to time reports have come out of Washington that the Administration might propose an especial tax on industrial corporations, specifically on munitions concerns. Though vague, the reports have proved slightly disadvantageous to the shares of the companies mentioned.

Notoriously, the red metal stocks have been laggards on the stock exchange have not advanced commensurate with the great gains made in net receipts. The copper companies also "war bridden" in a near sense. Their output is a direct and large necessity in war.

It is altogether likely that constant, although not obvious, foreign liquidation of the shares has retarded their movements.

The French are—or were—the heaviest foreign holders of American copper companies' stocks. Coppers have been favorites on the Paris Bourse for over a quarter of a century; a preference which two conspicuous disasters could not weaken.

A great bank was wrecked and several smaller institutions were closed in France in immediate sequel to the lapse of a bare speculation in the metal properties. Zola made this resounding fiasco the climax of "L'Argent."

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks ruled weak in New York at noon, a number being at their low for the day. Oils had recovered a part of losses, after order issues were the weakest class. Railroads and coppers were irregular. After the first hour recession there was a rally, with prices at their best around 11 o'clock. Motors led the upswing, Crucible was a feature. Reports that the German army had made gains on Verdun had adverse effect on general sentiment.

Declines in New York at 12 o'clock included Amerada 5, Tennessee Copper ¾, American Smelting ¾, U. S. Steel ½, Canadian Pacific ¼, Northern Pacific ½, Southern Pacific ¼, Union Pacific ½, Crucible 1¾, Distillers ¾, Maxwell ½, Studebaker 1½, Mexican Petroleum 1, Texas Co. 1, Anaconda 1½.

Among gains were American Sugar ½, Atchison ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ½, Central ¾, New Haven ¼, St. Paul ¼, Union Pacific ¼, Utah Copper ¼ and Westinghouse ¼.

Opening the noon hour the market improved a little.

Noon gains in Boston included Alaska Gold Mines 1¼, Granby 1¼, Greene-Cananea ¾, North Butte ¾, and Woolen preferred ¾.

Losses included Butte & Butte and Superior ¾, Copper Range ¼, Osceola ½, Quincy ¾, Mohawk ½, and United Fruit 1¼.

The feature of the last half of the morning was the sharp break in Granby and the advance of Greene-Cananea.

PRICES UP AT OPENING.

Stocks averaged a shade higher at the opening in New York, where Butte & Superior sold at the highest record price of 99¼. It started at 99 in Boston. The market was not active at the outset, and although it was believed on Wall Street that the administration would take part in favorable House in the battle booked for today both big and little trading interests were disposed to await definite news from Washington.

This had a restraining influence upon speculation in this part of the professional element. The public took no appreciable part in the market. There was apparently some disappointment which it has shown during what is believed to be the most favorable period in the history of this country. Stocks were not in large supply this morning. There was, however, a disposition to sell than to buy. The market is awaiting events which will give prices a boost or a jolt. Neither bulls nor bears are firm in convictions apparently, or not firm enough to assume much risk.

Prices eased off in New York after a few minutes of activity, being easing those to weaken most. At the end of half an hour Mexican Petroleum was off 1¾, California Petroleum 5 and Texas Co. 2½. The recessional movement was slight, however, if the list is taken as a whole.

ZINCS ACTIVE IN BOSTON.

Early activity in the Boston market was confined to zinc issues and U. S. Smelting. Coppers were strong as a class, but were not prominent in market. Utah Metals was traded in on the Boston Stock Exchange for 1,000 shares at 4¼, the same price being asked for

We Should All Be Cool and Reasonable

IT strikes us that a number of our newspapers and a number of our public men have fallen into the very bad habit of discussing foreign relations with the passionate heat of partisans rather than with reasonable coolness of judgment.

For instance, here is this matter of the right of Americans to travel through sea war zones on armed merchant ships. The discussion rages with thunderous fury over the question of whether Americans have that legal right. But nobody seems to pay much attention to the far more reasonable question as to WHETHER IT IS SENSIBLE FOR AMERICANS TO INSIST UPON EXERCISING SUCH A RIGHT, even if it is admitted to be a right.

Any American has a perfect right to do a thousand foolhardy things, any one of which may be his death. But surely nobody would urge him to do these things just to show that he had the right to do so.

Now, in this submarine matter, the question is not whether German submarines have the right to sink British armed merchantmen without warning, because that is a matter wholly between Germany and England.

The only question which could provoke war between us and Germany is a question which cannot arise until some American is killed on board an armed British merchant ship sunk by a German submarine.

And it is plain enough that this question cannot arise if all Americans who cross the ocean nowadays will take care to voyage only on British ships or other ships which are not armed—of which there are plenty to accommodate all travel.

In this condition of affairs it does seem to us that any American, both for his own safety and for the sake of his country, ought to be more than willing to keep off armed ships and to travel only on unarmed ships.

We are not speaking of the RIGHT of an American to voyage on an armed ship. We are speaking only of the COMMON SENSE OF THE MATTER.

Frankly, we do not think that an American who is willing to put the lives of millions of other Americans in jeopardy and to inflict all the destruction of war upon his country, merely to gratify a stubborn determination to risk his own life, when he does not need to take such a risk, can be called either a man of sense or a patriot.

Such a man has no real regard for his own country. It is very questionable whether his country should have any regard for him or for the life and safety which he deliberately and needlessly puts in jeopardy of his own free choice.

As we understand the obligations of a government to its citizens abroad, these obligations are to protect the person and property of any citizen who is voyaging or sojourning upon his lawful errands, with reasonable prudence.

Under such circumstances a nation is bound in honor to protect even the meanest citizen to the extreme point, if necessary, of going to war and losing many more valuable lives and the wealth gained by years of industry.

But we do not understand, nor do we believe, that a nation is bound in honor to protect a citizen who takes foolhardy risks, of his own choice and without any necessity at all.

We certainly would not be behind any newspaper in demanding war, whether with Germany or any other power, in a case where our national honor and self-respect were at stake, or in a case where the clear and reasonable rights of the humblest American citizen were at stake.

But we must say that to threaten war and to go to the dangerous verge of war over the right of an American citizen to risk his life in a foolhardy voyage on an armed ship, when his government and his people are ready and willing to protect him if he selects an unarmed ship, does seem to us a most unreasonable thing for us to do.

War is such a frightful matter that no nation should engage in war, as we believe, except as a very last resort in defence of its safety and of the indisputable rights of its citizens prudently and reasonably to live in or to travel over the world.

We are unable to see that either the safety of the United States or any reasonable right of our citizens is involved in guaranteeing the safety and life of a citizen who DELIBERATELY PUTS HIMSELF IN PERIL.

To expect all Americans to risk their lives and to waste their wealth for the sake of a citizen who has no more regard than that for his own safety or for the good of his country seems to us unreasonable.

We think it would be monstrous to have our young men slaughtered by the tens of thousands over such a cause—to kill our boys in heaps over the folly of a fool who obstinately and unreasonably puts himself in peril.

We do not believe the Congress is ready to make war for such a cause, or that the American people want their sons killed and their wealth destroyed for such a reason.

Preparedness Does Not Mean Militarism

A Strain in the American People Will Forever Prevent Them from Being Warlike

By John Sharp Williams

United States Senator from Mississippi

WE have made up our minds to prepare. We are setting about this business of national safeguards with a growing conviction that we must make a pretty thorough job of it.

To be honest with ourselves we may as well admit that we are the most egotistical people in the world, as we are the most wonderful in self-dependence, initiative, audacity, invention and enterprise.

Our forefathers bequeathed us that heritage; our environment has furnished the incentive. For generations we have been receiving the tides of men who, dissatisfied with conditions of existence in Europe, had the courage to brave the unknown and the stamina to conquer it.

True to Our Traits

The leaven of the old pioneers remains to keep us true to our national traits. Melting pot as we are for the world's differing ideals, languages and customs, our pioneers of the present, as of the past, resemble one another in the inborn force which drives them to seek this new and free arena for the exercise of the strength God has given them.

Aside from this genius we are no better than anybody else. Europe holds nations that are more highly cultured, in the sense that implies the graces of modern manners and the arts; but no nation approaches us in that basis social culture which is implied in the democratic, elbow-to-elbow touch and, after all, constitutes the real strength of a people.

With all the millions who have come to us we remain the Americans of old; we remain a people bred under pioneer conditions, the pioneer blood running in our veins, the pioneer memories undimmed in our hearts.

No people that has been pioneer-bred, reared in habits of caution as well as courage as the price of safety, is a rash people. Among all English-speaking peoples none is more cautious and conservative as a nation than we are.

There are still men enough of the pioneer race among us to call a halt on folly, as there have been to call the halt on nonsense when Bryan prated of his million defenders between sunrise and sunset.

America does not want to be prepared to whip the world; she has, within her own limits, nature enough to conquer without desiring to conquer men.

What America Wants

But America does want to be amply prepared to prevent any nation, or group of nations from asserting and consummating a world domination.

The last people in the world to submit to a new Roman Empire are the American people, as we would be the last to aim at establishing ourselves in any such overlordship.

No people understand better than we do that every dollar we spend on the army and navy is a dollar subtracted from something which is ideally worth more; on the other hand, no people can understand better than we that, without adequate safeguards we cannot build up our ideal within our own boundaries free from any interference from Europe.

In-Shoots

A gushing girl often has better luck in picking a husband than the woman of sense.

It is not often that a wife can please her husband and her mother-in-law at the same time.

Influential relatives have opened the door of opportunity for many a mediocre cuss.

It is dangerous to sympathize with a married woman who has a mean husband.

We can always discover the taints on the other fellow's money.

Stealing a Husband

It Can't Be Done, Says Dorothy Dix, If the Wife Keeps Her Wedded Partner So Interested That He Doesn't Want to Be Stolen

By Dorothy Dix

I GET a great many very pathetic letters from wives who complain that other women have stolen their husbands away from them, and who ask me if I do not think that these matrimonial thieves are the most iniquitous creatures on earth.

It is, of course, natural in such cases to blame the other woman wholly, and to accuse her of being a siren, who has exercised some sort of occult art over a helpless and hypnotized man in order to drag him away, against his inclination, from his home and fireside.

This is a cheering and comforting view for the wife to take of the situation. It is not without reason that the wife invariably blames the other woman. It saves her own face. It is one thing to forgive a man, and take him back, if he was shanghaied and taken unconscious and doped aboard the pleasure craft, and another to overlook his sidestepping if he sidestepped of his own accord, because he enjoyed doing it, and was tired and bored at home.

Now, my whole heart goes out to the woman whose husband has wearied of her and deserted her. I could weep tears of blood on her breast, but the truth remains that every case of husband stealing is what the police call "an inside job." No woman can steal a man away from his wife unless he wants to be stolen. Before the heart thief can get to, a man has to leave all the doors unlocked, and all the windows with the burglar alarms off.

While Love Lives

As long as a man is in love with his wife he is inoculated against all other charmers, charm they never so well nor so wisely. The other woman, no matter how beautiful and attractive she is, does not exist as an entity. She is merely just a part of the female population, another skirt among skirts, and he is in no more danger of getting into a flirtation with her than he is with his grandmother.

And women know this intuitively, and they waste no time nor smiles upon him. He has "taken" branded across his forehead, and even a feminine love pirate respects it.

Therefore, when a husband's affections have been stolen, you may be very sure that he has been guilty of, at least, contributory negligence in the matter.

He has left them lying around loose in the way of any woman with predatory instincts and light fingers who chanced to pass that way, and she is not wholly to blame if she took them.

If husband had been safe at home, where he belonged, no lady burglar could have broken down the door and purloined him from his own hearth.

In their fatuous belief that the other woman is a highway robber, who has held a man up at the point of a gun and forcibly taken his heart away from him, many wives are silly enough to actually appeal to the women to return their property to them.

They talk as if love were a peck of potatoes, or a diamond ring, that one could keep or restore at pleasure. How absurd! If a man has really ceased to care for his wife and come to love another woman, the other woman is as helpless in the matter as his wife.

A Hopeless Appeal

If she is a bad woman she can humiliate and mock the wife for not being able to hold her own, if she is a good woman she can pity the wife, but all of that does not rekindle the flame of affection for his wife in the husband's breast.

In reality there is no such thing as a husband stealer. When a woman is in possession of the affections of another woman's husband he has made her a present of his heart. She hasn't filched it, and the only way a wife can take out a burglar policy against having her husband stolen is to keep him so interested he doesn't want to be stolen.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

To a Baby

Professor Irving J. Fisher of Yale has estimated the value of a baby at $90.

OHO! You winking, blinking mite, so certain of your charms,
As you lie closely cuddled in your doting mother's arms,
Don't get a high flown notion of the price that you would bring,
Because she wouldn't trade you for the treasures of a king.

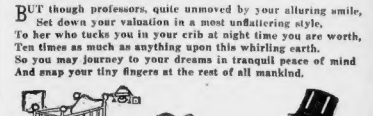
YOU are not half so precious as your mother thinks you are,
She'd have to trade in five of you to buy a Flivver car;
And if she saved her pennies up, inside a year or two
She'd find she had enough to get a dozen kids like you.
The baby crop is never short in this fair, thriving land;
There always is a big supply, and never much demand.

BUT though professors, quite unmoved by your alluring smile,
Set down your valuation in a most unflattering style,
To her who tucks you in your crib at night time you are worth,
Ten times as much as anything upon this whirling earth.
So you may journey to your dreams in tranquil peace of mind
And snap your tiny fingers at the rest of all mankind.



Oh, These Fighters!

The Vassar faculty wants us to break with the Central European Powers. Now if the Campfire Girls second the demand there will be no way out of war!

The Point of View

Some men, of course, are conscious blackguards, while some, as Mr. William James might have said, are merely subconscious blackguards.

But Will They Come?

Mr. Barnes says Roosevelt will support Hoot or any other candidate of the convention. Like Glendower, Mr. Barnes can call up promises from the vasty deep.
